

DIXIE HIGHWAY
LEADERS HERE
IN MOTORCADE

Women's Club Acts as Host To Several Hundred Members Arriving
During Afternoon.

CITIZENS WELCOME
PARTY TO GEORGIA

Many Features Planned
To Entertain Visiting
Members of Body En
Route To Florida.

Several hundred members of the motorcade of the Dixie Highway association, which arrived in two sections in Atlanta late Wednesday afternoon, will visit Stone mountain this morning and other interesting points about the city before resuming the tour to Miami. Members arriving at intervals during Wednesday afternoon visited the Women's club, where Mrs. Norman Sharp, president, and a special committee served coffee and sandwiches.

The motorcade is en route from Saint Ste. Marie, Mich., to Miami, Fla., and at many points along the route receptions and banquets were tendered members as a part of the association's observance of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the association.

A banquet had been planned on the Ansley hotel roof Wednesday night but was called off owing to late arrival of the motorcade and the fact that the members were tired after a strenuous day along the route from Chattanooga.

Members of the party were high in their praises of the value of the highway to motorists of the nation and stated that the road was in excellent shape from the Michigan city. Latest reports from points between Atlanta and Miami are to the effect that the best stretch of the highway lies between this city and Miami, and members of the caravan are looking forward to the remainder of the tour with pleasure.

The motorcade will leave Atlanta shortly after noon today for Macon, where members will spend tonight, leaving in two sections Friday morning for Miami. At Griffin, Barnesville, Forsyth and other points along the route to Macon brief stops will be made where motorists will be greeted and officially welcomed.

One division leaving Macon Friday morning will go to Miami via Hawkinsville, Fitzgerald, Waycross, Jacksonville and other east coast points, while the other division will go via Perry, Cordele, Valdosta, Lake City and Tampa, Fla. The two divisions are expected to arrive in Miami Sunday night.

Motorcade Divided.
The motorcade divided in Chattanooga Wednesday morning, one section coming via Dalton and the other via Rome. All along the route citizens welcomed the parties, brief stops being made at a few points for short addresses and official welcomes. At Marietta, Frank T. Reynolds, of the Ansley hotel, Fred Newell and other Atlantans, greeted the party and conducted that division into the city after a formal welcome and short talk by Mr. Reynolds.

Judge M. M. Allison, was re-elected president of the association at Tuesday night's banquet and annual election of officers in Chattanooga. Several score other officers, including six.

TAX LAW UPHELD
BY GEORGE NAPIER

Attorney General To Instruct Tax Commissioner To Be Governed by Recent Legislative Act.

WILL GIVE OPINION TO DOZIER TODAY

Recent Opinion by Assistant Attorney General
Gress, Holding Act Unconstitutional, Reversed.

State Tax Commissioner James A. Dozier will be instructed today by Attorney General George M. Napier to collect inheritance taxes under the act passed by the recent general assembly rather than under the previous statute, reversing a recent opinion by Assistant Attorney General Thomas R. Gress to the effect that the new law was unconstitutional.

In a lengthy opinion to be made public today, Mr. Napier holds that the new act repeals the existing law by superseding it and by implication. It is possible for the legislature to do this where it does not intend to repeal a law expressly, Mr. Napier said Wednesday night. He quoted Justice Holmes of the supreme court in a decision directly covering this point in his opinion to Mr. Dozier.

Though sustaining Mr. Gress in his contention that the legislature cannot expressly repeal an existing law by implication, the attorney general holds that if the later act is consistent with the existing law, then it can supersede the present law and repeal it by implication.

The new law merely changes the manner in which such a tax is to be levied and the amount which is to be collected, thereby being consistent with the existing law.

Mr. Napier also holds that the new act will stand as the law under which the taxes are to be collected as the latest expression of the legislature. He does not touch upon the matter of collecting taxes from non-resident decedents in his opinion to Mr. Dozier, but in the opinion of Mr. Gress, inheritance taxes cannot be collected from those who have property in Georgia but who do not reside in the state, as the law states expressly that the taxes shall be levied upon the estates of resident decedents.

The attorney general's opinion is expected to clarify a situation which has caused a great deal of comment through the state, and will be the guide for the tax commissioner, who has stated that he had submitted the question to Mr. Napier and would abide by his decision in handling tax collections.

SENATOR RALSTON, OF INDIANA, DEAD

Hoosier Statesman and Lawyer Succumbs to Long Illness Caused by Disease of Kidneys.

Indianapolis, Ind., October 14.—(AP) Samuel M. Ralston, United States senator from Indiana, died tonight at his country home north of this city.

He would have been 74 years old. Death came to the statesman at the place he loved best, "Hoosier Home," located just outside the city limits of Indianapolis. Immediate members of the family, who had been forewarned of the senator's condition, were present.

Ralston's death was preceded by a long illness caused by disease of the kidneys. He returned from Washington last March in poor health. On September 5, his condition became aggravated and he was ordered to bed by his physicians.

His condition became alarming early this month when uraemic poisoning developed and recently his life has hung by a slender thread.

Senator Ralston, a democrat, defeated Albert J. Beveridge, republican nominee, at the senatorial election in 1922.

He was elected governor of Indiana for a four-year term in 1912.

Atlanta Federation of Trades Indorses Issue and Refuses To Oppose
Increase in Taxes.

SIMS TO PROPOSE
$5,000,000 ISSUE

Will Fight Any Increase in Taxes—Clubwomen
Act at Meeting Held in College Park.

Developments in the movement for a bond issue for general improvements in Atlanta came thick and fast Thursday, including approval of bonds by the Atlanta Federation of Trades and the fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, and the declaration of Mayor Walter A. Sims that he would submit a proposal for a $5,000,000 issue which would eliminate the necessity of a tax increase in the city.

Approval of the trades federation was embodied in a resolution which placed the organization on record as favoring a bond issue of $12,000,000 or more, for "needed improvements in schools, sewers, waterworks, a tuberculosis sanitarium, and a new city hall." Indorsement of "adequate bonds for better sewage, better schools, a new city hall and waterworks needs," was carried in a resolution adopted by the fifth district club women in a general meeting at College Park.

Oppose Raise in Taxes.
Mayor Sims' announcement that he would recommend the $5,000,000 issue came in a statement in which he declared opposition to any increase in city taxes. He stated that he would oppose a bond issue of any size or nature which would raise taxes and it was indicated that he would veto an ordinance to this effect if one should pass council.

Following an almost unanimous vote by the trades federation body in favor of a big bond issue, an attempt to place the body on record as opposed to a tax increase for a bond issue was defeated by a close vote. Councilman Claude Ashley and others explained to the meeting that passage of such a measure would be tantamount to offsetting the effect of approving the bond issue proposal.

The resolution adopted by the club women was presented by Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, chairman, who was assisted by other members of the resolution committee.

Mayor's Proposal.
The recommendation of a $5,000,000 bond issue or approximately that amount will be made as soon as I receive the estimates as to the probable cost of the two proposed viaducts over the tracks at Central avenue and Pryor streets," Mayor Sims said.

"This information will be received next week according to present indications."

Mayor Sims said flatly he does not believe a tax increase of 25 cents each $100 should be levied at this time. He also does not favor a $12,000,000 bond issue as recommended by the special bond committee of council, but said he would not oppose the submission of such an issue to the people, provided council passes such a measure.

The ordinance carrying the $12,000,000 bond issue and the increase of 25 cents in the tax rate of $1.50 per $100 will be introduced in council Monday, it was learned at the city hall. It is expected the measure will be introduced by the special committee and not by any individual member.

The proposed $12,000,000 bond issue carries $5,000,000 for schools, $2,000,000 for sewers, $2,500,000 for waterworks, $500,000 for Battle Hill sanitarium, $800,000 for viaducts and $1,750,000 for a new city hall.

The special committee cut the city hall item from $2,000,000 to $1,750,000 but this cut was approved by the chief supporters of the city hall bond issue.

Record-Breaking Crowds Are Expected During Final Three Days of Great Exhibition.

BIG ATTENDANCE OF FARMERS SEEN

Live Stock Awards To Be Completed and Prize
Winners of Many Exhibits Announced.

Completion of live stock awards, beginning of contests among boys' club judging teams, and selection of prize winners in many exhibits will mark today's activities as the Southeastern fair enters the final days of the 1925 exposition.

Despite the rains during Wednesday immense throngs crowded through the gates during the day and at night one of the largest crowds of the present fair jammed the midway and its varied attractions. The management is expecting even larger throngs today although light rains are predicted. Hundreds of farmers from adjoining counties are expected to form a major portion of the crowd.

Liberal Arts building, Merchants and Manufacturers' building, Agricultural building, poultry show, dog show, negro department, cattle barn, swine barn, sheep and goat barn and all other roofed enclosures on the fair grounds, including the midway shows, were thronged with admiring thousands throughout the day.

Governor Walker Speaks.
Governor Clifford Walker's address on the possibilities and opportunities before the young boys of Georgia was the principal feature Wednesday of the boys' Southeastern fair school, which closed its second day's work and prepared for a big day today when H. G. Hastings, former president of the fair, and Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, will speak in connection with the work that will be done in the various judging classes this afternoon.

The judging contest of the boys' school will start early Thursday morning when all who won out in the various elimination contests held in Waycross, Millen, Rome, Griffin and Tifton and others, will compete for the highest judging honors of the school. The county team winning the largest number of points will receive the team award.

The management of the fair was ready Wednesday night for the reception of another throng of enormous proportions during today, with the expected arrival of the huge government passenger airplane, secured by the Aerial Exposition committee, through R. E. L. Cone, member of the city air board. The huge ship, carrying five passengers, had been scheduled to leave New York Wednesday for arrival here Thursday after a one-day non-stop flight.

More Throngs Expected.
The first day of good weather during the three days the fair has left to run will unquestionably bring out another record-breaking crowd such as attended Monday, the only day on which we have enjoyed favorable weather since the fair opened," R. M. Striplin said. "We are sure of that because the attendance on rainy days has exceeded many fair-weather days of previous fairs."

"The real heart of the fair this year is all under rain-proof cover, in the exposition buildings, barns and stables, where the progress and prosperity of the south are inspiring representations."

Girl, Thrice Wed in 18 Months,
Declares Bigamy Law 'Cruel'

BY LEO J. CASEY.
New York, October 14.—A pretty, soft-spoken girl of 21, released in $1,000 bail on a charge of bigamy, kissed two of her three husbands goodbye and then told newspapermen of the "cruelty" of a law which imprisoned her because she had never bothered with the formality of divorce between her marital ventures.

This was little Virginia Gorcham, a girl who couldn't say "no."

At a time when most girls of her age will only shyly admit the existence of hope chests, Virginia has three heard the peal of wedding bells.

She is not of a hard type, brazen in explanation of her love-making. Her frank, "Why, yes; I didn't think there was anything wrong" in marrying three men since February, 1924, has caused police to throw up their hands and turn the case over to the psychologists.

Virginia was arrested Wednesday at the request of her third husband, Harry Rosenberg, a cabaret waiter. Rosenberg told police that while he was waiting on tables his wife was waiting for men.

According to Rosenberg, the girl

War for Schools.

Albany, Ga., October 14.—(AP) Confederate veterans of the Georgia division, in session here, tonight called upon Governor Clifford Walker to convene the Georgia general assembly in extra session for the purpose of settling the fate of the Confederate veteran scrip bill passed by the last legislature.

The bill has been declared unconstitutional by Assistant Attorney General T. R. Gress.

Lengthy discussion preceded the decision of the veterans to put the scrip bill issue squarely up to Governor Walker. John W. Clark, pension commissioner, made a lengthy report on the scrip bill during the afternoon session, explaining the steps taken to have it passed by the legislature and subsequent developments, including the opinion recently expressed by the assistant attorney general.

Following Mr. Clark's report, there was a demand for a speech by ex-Governor Harris and the former chief executive responded with an address in which he declared there was no necessity for an extra session of the legislature. He said no legal flaws had been found in the bill by Attorney General George N. Napier, and the only obstacle to carrying out provisions of the measure was the method of raising funds to redeem the scrip.

The discussion grew so heated after the address of ex-Governor Harris that the veterans remained in session all afternoon, preventing a scheduled automobile ride about the city and a street parade.

A short recess was taken for supper and the veterans then returned to the hall to resume their discussion of the scrip bill. While the proceedings went on, hundreds had gathered in the street to witness the parade, but the veterans remained within their meeting place and the "grand march" through the city was called off.

Adopted by Big Vote.
Some of the veterans contended that the constitutionality of the bill had been seriously questioned and would have to be tested in court. Others held that the only question involved was the raising of the money. Vigorous protest was voiced against the legislature's policy of "caring for other needs before considering the needs of the old soldiers." Finally the formal resolution calling upon the governor to convene the assembly for the purpose of determining the scrip bill matter was adopted by a large majority.

Also Proffers Free Use of Candler Field for Landing Purposes.

Free use of Candler field as an aviation base and donation of ample land for an airplane manufacturing plant or any other kind of plant was tendered Henry Ford through his representative, William B. Stout, by Alderman W. B. Hartsfield Wednesday. Mr. Hartsfield made this offer subject to the approval of council as an inducement to Mr. Ford to build a manufacturing plant in Atlanta and to center his airplane activities in this section in this city.

Mr. Hartsfield accompanied Mr. Stout to Candler field and showed him the advantages of that field as a landing site for planes. The city has 300 acres available at Candler field and is now using 30 acres in the establishment of an air base.

"Mr. Stout was well pleased with Candler field as a landing point for planes," Mr. Hartsfield said. "The offer of free use of the field was made so that Mr. Stout would know that this city would not charge the Ford company any fees for landing planes on the field as are charged in several other cities."

The offer of the use of the field and the free site for a factory was taken under advisement by Mr. Stout, who will communicate details to Mr. Ford.

Sheriff, 'Honest Cop' Jailed
For Favoring Beer Barons

CHICAGO JUDGE SENTENCES THEM FOR CONTEMPT

Chicago, October 14.—(AP) The law he has spent more than half of his life upholding turned on the "honest cop"—Wesley H. Westbrook—today when Federal Judge Wilkerson sentenced him to four months in jail for contempt of court for accepting bribes from and favoring Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, rich young beer barons.

Peter M. Hoffman, sheriff of Cook county (Chicago), and for 20 years political leader and office holder, also felt the legal boomerang with a jail sentence of 30 days and a fine of $2,500.

One new figure was brought into the contempt hearing, only one escaped punishment, Arthur Pendel, former jail guard, who accepted $100 after he had escorted Lake to Lake's sister's funeral.

With almost one-fourth of their $1,000,000 goal already subscribed and turned in at the first report luncheon of the Yaarab Temple mosque-auditorium building fund campaign, workers are starting out again today to push the total of $219,080 raised Wednesday well above the $300,000 mark.

The first day's reports exceeded expectations of campaign leaders who had not expected more than $200,000 subscriptions during the first 48 hours of the campaign.

Matthews Team Leads.
Solicitation Team No. 1, led by Al Matthews, of the Ed and Al Matthews Furniture company, carried off the honors by reporting the greatest percentage of its quota. This team is expected to raise $28,800 and turned in $8,400.

The greatest sum reported by any team was $10,125 which F. Graham Williams, captain of Team No. 5, announced his workers had secured.

The honors for the highest average per subscription fell to Team No. 13, captained by W. E. Gathright, whose prospect cards totaled exactly $5,000, with an average of nearly $300 apiece.

A feature of the meeting was the report by Henry C. Heinz, chairman of the special subscription committee, who announced that his committee was ready to turn in one $10,000 subscription, one for $5,000, two for $2,500.

Rivalry Between New York And Rest of U.S. at Bottom Of Ship Board Controversy

Gulf, Middle Western and Pacific States Solidly
Against Coolidge
Policy of Centralization.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, October 14.—The deepest cause of the shipping board fight has been little discussed and hardly realized at all in the east. New York sees it as an effort of Coolidge to achieve efficiency and economy through one-man responsibility, and consequently sides wholly with the president.

Critics of the president see it as an attempt by him to exact a promise from a prospective appointee, and additionally undesirable as an effort by the president to usurp the congressional authority expressed in the law creating the shipping board.

But the true reason for the shipping board's resentment of the actions of the Coolidge appointee, for the resignation of Frederick I. Thompson, the Alabama member, and for the refused resignation of the Oregon member, is competitive interest between New York and the rest of the country. That is the heart of the controversy.

Haney Strengthened by Action.

This aspect of the situation is realized by those portions of the country distant from New York, and their support of Haney and the shipping board as against Coolidge is energetic and formidable. In Oregon, although that is normally a strong republican state, it is asserted by competent judges that Haney could be elected to the senate next year as against Stanford, the republican incumbent. Oregon—and this is also true of the south—feels that no one-man authority is acceptable, because they want their communities represented on the shipping board. They feel that no one-man control would be satisfactory at any time, and feel that the particular man Coolidge selected—Admiral Palmer—was following a course favorable to New York interests as against the rest of the country.

Haney Quotes Palmer.

Haney, in giving his detailed reasons for opposition to Palmer, said: "He went to New York and stated flatly that he was not interested in the ambitions of ports, referring directly to Portland."

At another time, Haney said: "I was appointed under the law to represent the Pacific coast, and I would be violating my oath of office if I allowed Palmer to administer the available ships in such a way as to diminish service in the region which I am commissioned to represent."

The chairman of the foreign trade committee of the Portland Chamber of Commerce charged that Admiral Palmer was "playing into the hands of those New York shipping interests, who came near to securing a throttle-hold on American ships. Their policy is to force trade through a few ports which they control."

The Portland Oregonian says: "The group which centers in New York, and which has seven-eighths of its shipping investments in foreign vessels, condemned the shipping board as a useless expense and introduced a bill to transfer practically all its powers to the fleet corporation, its president to be the autocrat."

Fred Thompson's Views.

From the south Commissioner Thompson, who resigned in order to be free to carry on the fight, said: "Those who are to administer the government's shipping should be appointed from the Atlantic Pacific and gulf seaboard, the great lakes and the interior."

The Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has passed a resolution calling on its representatives and senators not to permit the shipping board to be directed by its author.

Some Washington officials sympathize with the demand of the south and west for shipping, but at the same time either favor one-man management for the sake of efficiency, or else disapprove the whole idea of the government being in the shipping business.

From such a source has come a suggestion that the difficulty be solved by the government making an outright present, without cost, of its ships to any chambers of commerce or groups of business men vouched for by their local chambers of commerce, who will undertake to accept the ships and operate them.

This case, it is pointed out, would rid the government of its ships, free it of the operating deficits, take the government out of the shipping business, and at the same time provide with sufficient initiative and sufficient business to maintain them. An addition to this suggestion is that, wherever a local American shipping line thus operated can show it loses money wholly by reason of foreign competition, in such cases the American government might undertake to meet half the operating loss by a national subsidy.

3 POLICE DOGS ENJOY CONTEST OF EATING NAILS

New York, October 14.—It was tooth and nail with three German police dogs, Hop, Skip and Jump, and dog lovers doubtless will be interested.

A contest was staged to determine which dog could eat the most nails in a workshop in the rear of Max Goldman's trunk store on West Houston street.

Skip, after chewing his 200th nail, collapsed. Jump swallowed 374 and then dropped out in agony. Hop battled on, eating 555 inch long wire nails, and several strands of wire and a small stone for good measure. All the dogs were taken to an animal hospital and operations were performed. Skip, the weakling, died, but Hop and Jump survived after the nails were pulled from their stomachs.

SHERIFF CHARGED WITH PROFITEERING IN FLORIDA JAIL

Miami, Fla., October 14.—(AP)—"Apparent profiteering" was charged to Sheriff Henry R. Chase in administration of the Dade county jail in a final report returned early this afternoon by the grand jury recalled to duty. The same grand jury had inspected the jail and made a scathing report last May. Conditions have not improved since, the report states.

Speaking of the jail, the report is quoted: "We found it in unspeakable condition, with the prisoners given practically no care, no medical attention, starvation rations, not enough mattresses or bedding and poor sanitation."

Two meals a day are served, at 8 a. m. and 3 p. m., according to the jury, and very scanty and unwholesome rations served, with a deaf ear turned to requests for additional helpings.

The jury recommended appointment of a special attorney to make rounds of the jail each week and see that all prisoners were enjoying their constitutional privileges. Four prisoners were found, the report said, who had no hearing and there was no record of why they were confined.

De Mille Refusing All Scenarios After Atlanta Suit

Culver City, Cal., October 14.—(AP)—The DeMille studio, operated by Cecil DeMille, announced yesterday that as a result of recent suits involving the authorship of screen plays, all scenarios submitted by mail are being returned unopened.

The announcement followed a federal court judgment in Atlanta in favor of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation in connection with a suit brought against a picture directed by DeMille.

SUSPECTS ADMIT HUGE MAIL ROBBERY

Los Angeles, October 14.—(AP)—Two of the six suspects arrested in connection with the holdup of a registered mail truck here last Thursday have made confessions and $500,000 worth of jewels and securities, nearly all of the loot, have been recovered.

Those under arrest are Charles Wagner, Robert Cargo, a mechanic; Harry Thomas, alleged leader of the gang; Frank Tesiciana, George ("Jack") Davidson and Sam Sandberg, alias Shapiro.

Tesiciana led the officers to the hiding place south of Los Angeles, where they recovered $9,000 in cash, $140,000 in negotiable bonds, $200,000 in bankers' checks and 40 costly platinum watches. One man remains to be caught.

Sandberg is at liberty on $5,000 bail from Leavenworth, Kas., under indictment charging him with transporting a stolen car. He was arrested at Kansas City.

MAN SLAYS DAUGHTER THEN KILLS SELF

Marbury, Ala., October 14.—(AP)—D. Colson, a truck driver, shot and killed his 14-year-old daughter, Myrtle Billingsley, to death this morning and then turned his pistol on himself. It was learned in reports reaching here shortly after noon. Colson died almost immediately.

The child was a daughter of Porter Billingsley, well known Marbury sawmill man. She had made her home for some years with Colson, who was a middle aged man, and had been married several years.

The report of the tragedy reaching here revealed that the child was shot once, and that Colson had directed a bullet through his own heart.

Imaginary Prince of Wales To Arrive in London Today

Subjects Prepare Rousing Welcome for British Heir

BY CHARLES M. McCANN.

London, October 14.—An imaginary Prince of Wales will arrive at Victoria station Thursday aboard an imaginary train to be greeted by an imaginary king and queen and saluted by an imaginary guard of honor. The occasion will be the rehearsal of the actual arrival of the prince, which is scheduled for Friday.

Thousands of his father's subjects will turn out Friday to greet Wales on his return from his long journey to South Africa and South America, and it is necessary to rehearse the ceremony of arrival just as if it were a movie scene or an act on the legitimate stage. The court officials who arrange the details of such royal functions take pride in providing the populace with a smooth-running pageant.

London is being dressed in gay colors for the return of the prince from his 18,000-mile journey. The route to be followed by the royal carriages, which will bear the king, the queen and their son from Victoria to Buckingham palace, will be lined by hundreds of thousands of spectators Friday and they will begin to gather in the morning. There will be hours of waiting unbroken by the street hawkers and the occasional appearance of a mounted policeman.

Then wagons of gravel will pass slowly between the throngs while men with shovels scatter the pebbles on the asphalt roadway. This precaution is necessary to provide sure footing for the horses of the military escort and the royal carriages.

The battle cruiser Repulse, aboard which Wales has made his traveling headquarters during the past months, is steaming home as fast as her engines can drive her to permit a sailor to attend his father's funeral in London Friday morning.

The sailor is Fred Bramley, a radio operator. His father, a prominent labor leader, died in Amsterdam, and Wales, learning of his death, re-

FARM BUILDING AT NOTRE DAME RAZED BY FIRE

South Bend, Ind., October 14.—(AP) Fire of undetermined origin tonight razed the main building of the University of Notre Dame farm buildings group, adjacent to the campus, causing a loss unofficially estimated at $100,000. Two thousand Notre Dame students aided the South Bend firemen in their attempt to save the building, but a high wind swept the flames beyond their control soon after the fire was discovered. The local fire department and the majority of the students stood by to resume the fight should a changing wind endanger the university.

What do you gain by using high-grade gasoline?

A quick, easy start is one advantage of using Pan-Am Gasoline. You use the choke less, and this means less dripping of unexploded gas into your crank-case to dilute your oil.

THE explosions in your cylinder are uniform when you use Pan-Am; the power of your car is even and steady.

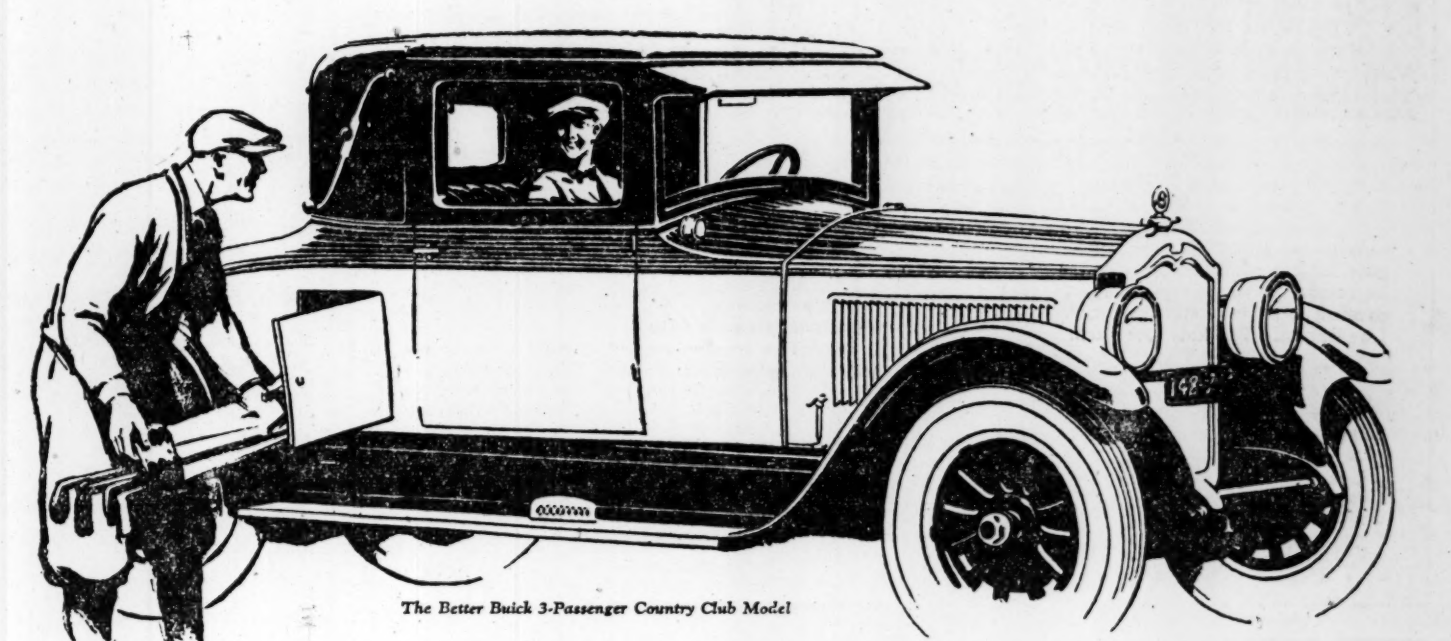

Pan-Am Gasoline is always the same in quality whenever and wherever you get it—and there is no gasoline of any higher quality. It is wise to settle on one brand of gasoline that proves itself satisfactory rather than run the risk of getting some inferior product that will make your motor less efficient.

ALLEGED SLAYERS FACE COURT TODAY

Six white persons and one negro are slated to go on trial today in the criminal division of Fulton superior court to answer charges of murder.

Rogers Gilbert and J. B. Waldrup, jointly indicted by a Fulton county grand jury on September 22 on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Leonard Langford in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, at 114 1-2 Garnett street, will be tried in Judge John D. Humphries' division. Langford is alleged to have been shot to death following a quarrel with Gilbert and Waldrup.

Leon Nichols, Clarence Nichols, Bill Thompson and George Poole, jointly indicted July 21, will be tried before Judge G. H. Howard. The four men are alleged to have been occupants of the car from which the fatal pistol shots were fired, killing Walter McIntyre as he stood on Ivy street near Ellis street.

Marion McAfee, negro, indicted September 29, also will be tried in Judge Howard's division. She is alleged to have shot and killed her husband, Robert McAfee, on September 16.

NEGRO WHO SLEW LUMBER DEALER BELIEVED CAUGHT

Mack Wooten, negro, alleged slayer of D. H. Williams, wealthy Atlanta lumberman who was shot to death on December 30, 1922, has been identified by the widow of Mr. Williams and by Miss Lillian McFarlin, a relative, as the negro who was seen running from the residence immediately after the fatal shots were fired, according to Marvin Baker, special investigator for Solicitor General John A. Boykin.

Wooten was returned recently to Atlanta from Philadelphia where he was arrested at the request of Fulton county authorities.

Baker also stated that the negro had been identified by Policeman Meager, of Tallapoosa, Ala., as the negro who shot him in Alabama City. The negro is being confined in the Fulton county tower pending his trial next week on indictment returned by a Fulton county grand jury on a charge of murder.

Williams was shot after he had gone to the servants' quarters in the rear of his house to question a strange negro who had stopped there asking food, it is said. The negro is alleged to have shot Williams before Williams could pull his gun. The negro is said to have demanded food, stating that he was an escaped convict.

Wooten is said to have admitted that he was an escaped convict but emphatically denies shooting Williams.

$60,000 DAMAGES ASKED IN SUITS IN FULTON COURT

Four suits asking aggregate sums of $60,000 damages were filed Wednesday in the office of the clerk of Fulton superior court, according to Fred T. Edwards, deputy clerk.

The largest of these suits was filed by Mrs. Sallie Mae Sanford against the Central of Georgia railroad asking $25,000 damages for the death of her son, Henry G. Sanford, 7, who was killed September 12, by a passenger train at Glenn street crossing. In the suit Mrs. Sanford charged that the excessive speed of the train scared her son to such a degree that he was unable to get off the tracks of the approaching train.

W. L. Wheatley asked $20,000 damages against the Georgia Railway and Power company and the city of Atlanta for injuries alleged to have been received on February 7 when he drove his automobile into the safety platform at Peachtree and Broad streets. He charged that defendants were negligent in not placing signal lights at that time on the platform.

E. C. Laird was made defendant in two damage suits aggregating $10,000, filed by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dickschneit. Mrs. Dickschneit claimed that she received injuries when she was struck by Laird's automobile at the intersection of Peachtree and Ellis streets. She asked $5,000 damages. Her husband also asked for $5,000 damages for the loss of the services of his wife.

S. C. Nash filed suit against the city of Atlanta for $5,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received on October 13 when he fell into a manhole at Kennedy and Emmett streets.

Mayor Hyman Gets $25,000 Year Offer From Virginia Firm

New York, October 10.—(AP)—Mayor John F. Hyman announced today that he had received an offer of $25,000 a year, the exact amount of his salary as mayor to become a member of a firm in Virginia.

His announcement was precipitated at a meeting of the board of estimate to consider the city's 1926 budget, by a statement brought in discussing the rate of pay for library employees and the effect that in Virginia library workers were better paid than in New York.

"I understand that they pay pretty good salaries in Virginia," the mayor said. "I have received an offer of $25,000 a year and an interest in the firm—a financial interest."

He did not intimate whether he would accept nor would he discuss the details of the proposal.

VALIDITY OF TAX ACT QUESTIONED IN CASE

Claiming that the law levying taxes on dealers of lighting equipment and their agents in Georgia is unconstitutional in that it places a burden on interstate commerce, W. E. Hickey & Co., Inc., of Albany, Ga., Wednesday filed an injunction proceeding in Dougherty superior court. The firm asked that tribunal to restrain P. H. Jones, tax collector of Dougherty; William A. Wright, comptroller general, and John M. Vandiver, revenue commissioner, from extracting taxes from the Deleo Lighting company, which the firm represents.

Judge W. V. Custer, of the Albany circuit, granted a temporary restraining order asked in the petition and set October 19 as the date of the hearing arguments for the permanent injunction.

The Hickey concern claims that section 66 of the Georgia code, under which authority is given state and county officials to collect taxes such as the officers now are attempting to get from it, is in restraint of trade and, therefore, unconstitutional.

The Deleo company is located at Dayton, Ohio.

Notice of the injunction suit was served on state house officials named as defendants at the attorney general's office Wednesday.

NEW TRIAL GIVEN TO J. J. TANNER

J. J. Tanner, farm overseer, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment on a charge of murder growing out of the death of Gus A. Tarbuton, wealthy Johnson county planter, Wednesday was granted a new trial by the Georgia supreme court. The killing occurred in Johnson county on February 17, 1925.

Judge Earl Camp, of Dublin, erred in failing to specifically charge the jury that certain declarations made by G. C. Rawlings, who was jointly indicted with Tanner and who later was convicted and sentenced to serve a life term, were not to be considered in making up its verdict, the high court ruled. Both Tanner and Rawlings were tried at Wrightsville and the cases attracted state-wide attention on account of the prominence of the two men.

Conspiracy Charged.

The state charged that Tanner and Rawlings had entered into a conspiracy to slay Tarbuton and the ruling of the high court affected statements made by Rawlings after the killing.

The ruling of the court on the point in question was as follows: "Declarations of one joint conspirator made after the enterprise is ended, are inadmissible except to the person making them, and as against others must be rejected as narrative merely of past occurrences."

Tanner alleged several grounds of error in his appeal and claimed that newly-discovered evidence entitled him to a new trial. The court failed to grant a retrial on the new evidence, but upheld the contention concerning alleged utterances of Rawlings.

Evidence Ruled Out.

"Evidence concerning the statements of Rawlings was ruled out, but the charge to the jury was not specific on this point," the decision sets out. Justice Marcus Beck wrote the decision, other justices concurring.

An interesting feature of the case is that the court of appeals is scheduled to hear arguments in the suit of H. P. Tarbuton, son of the slain man, for $250,000 damages for the death of his father. The suit was filed in the city court of Wrightsville against Tanner and Rawlings. The defendant's demurrer to the suit was overruled and the case has been brought to the appeals court.

Tarbuton was killed as he, Rawlings and Tanner were inspecting bauxite deposits on the Tarbuton-Rawlings plantation. He was shot through the back of the head by a load from a gun carried by Tanner, who claimed he slipped and fell, but the gun was discharged accidentally. Tarbuton and Rawlings were business partners and Tanner was the farm overseer. The state charged that Tarbuton was a victim of a conspiracy to kill the wealthy planter in order to permit Rawlings to collect several hundred thousand dollars in insurance, which he is alleged to have taken out on the dead man.

The state was represented by Solicitor General Fred Kea, of Dublin; Judge Luther Kent, formerly of the Dublin circuit; E. L. Stephens, former solicitor general of the Dublin circuit; C. W. Brinson, former solicitor of the Wrightsville city court, and J. J. Davis, of Sandsville. Appearing for the defense were former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, the firm of Evans & Evans, of Sandsville; the firm of Wright & McMillan, of Sandsville, and C. S. Claxton, of Wrightsville.

NEW TRIAL LIKELY NEXT MARCH.

Dublin, Ga., October 14.—(Special.) The second trial of J. J. Tanner, under life sentence, who was today granted a new hearing by the Georgia supreme court, in connection with the shooting of Gus A. Tarbuton, on February 14, will be held at the next regular term of the Georgia supreme court, on the third Monday in March, it was announced here this afternoon by Judge Earl Camp, when appeal of the court's decision.

The Sunny Land of Lengthened Youth

Age claims its toll at HOLLYWOOD By the Sea—evenually—but the glorious out of doors, the regenerative, ocean-born ozone that fills one's lungs 24 hours a day every day in the year, the endless variety of recreations, the daily joys of land and salt sea sports—all lengthen youth and hold old age at a standstill.

HOLLYWOOD'S immense building program, embracing many millions of dollars, $4,000,000 of which are for hotels now under construction, means that here is to be developed a solid city of surpassing attractiveness—a city teeming with every facility for life's utmost enjoyment but operating as a city of commerce, industry and thrift and not as a mere seasonal idling place.

Property bought at today's prices must inevitably advance far beyond present levels as HOLLYWOOD moves steadily forward towards the maritime supremacy of Florida's East Coast.

Druggan and Lake were kept in custody by deputy United States marshals to be returned to those jails.

Westbrook, from the first breath of accusation against him, denied he ever had accepted a bribe and said that any liberties permitted Druggan and Lake were upon the orders of Hoffman, who, in turn, said Westbrook solely was responsible for the jail.

Druggan, Lake and Forster testified to payments of thousands of dollars in bribes for removal from cells to hospital wards, all day and over night absences, and various other favors denied other prisoners. Forster admitted he retained several thousand dollars and Westbrook also was accused of having fixed $25,000 a month, divided into $1,000 payments on the first and sixteenth of the month as the amount necessary for "consideration" of Druggan and Lake.

LOREE ANNOUNCES PLAN FOR MERGER

months ago, an interest in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad company.

"It is hoped that the three properties, with certain possible additions, will constitute a system acceptable to the interstate commerce commission, under the transportation act, and invaluable in the rendition of efficient transportation service in the southwestern territory."

Restores Original Plan.

The new alignment of southwestern railroads restores to a large extent the interstate commerce commission's tentative consolidation plans for the southwest, which were upset earlier in the year by the Rock Island's unexpected acquisition of the Cotton Belt.

With the addition of the Kansas City Southern, which originally had been allotted to the Missouri Pacific, the building of system 18 is now expected to link the Frisco, St. Louis, Southwestern, "Katy" and Chicago & Alton railroads. The Rock Island, it is believed in financial and railroad circles, will at the same time find its way back to its original grouping with the Southern Pacific system.

Plans of Mr. Loree and the Kuhn & Loeb banking institution in the southwest first took shape early last spring, when a quarter interest was acquired in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad. These holdings gradually have been expanded until the Kansas City Southern is now reported to own about 375,000 of the outstanding $40,755 share of "Katy" common stock.

Other Possible Merger Members.

Other properties which have been mentioned as additions to the greater Kansas City Southern system are the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company and the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific. When the merger is finally completed, it is expected to rival in size and importance the other southwestern road systems, such as the Southern Pacific, Atchafalpa, Topeka & Santa Fe and Missouri Pacific.

stolen from Miss Lee McElreath, 62 West Baker street, while a silk parasol belonging to Mrs. A. Barrett was taken by a sneak thief from the office at 202 Hanes-Lowell building.

Just a few minutes after he set his suitcase down in the main waiting room of the Terminal station, L. M. Rose, of Knoxville, Tenn., found that it had disappeared.

The loss of 14 prize chickens was reported by Mrs. S. Goldsmith, 37 Coolidge avenue.

City detectives and special agents of the railroad and express companies are investigating the theft of the trunk of Miss Anna M. Trotter, who is visiting at Fort McPherson.

Miss Trotter had her trunk checked through from Portland, Ore. Upon its arrival at the Terminal station she reported she was called upon to pay for excess weight on her baggage. "The trunk was weighed at that time and upon its arrival at Fort McPherson it weighed just ten pounds less," she told detectives.

An electric iron and a quantity of wearing apparel had been taken, seemed to be intact.

Under a claim of having stolen from automobiles suitcases belonging to H. W. Myers and W. C. Graham, 706 Wynne-Claughton building, V. H. Baker, 75 Marietta street, and having passed a number of worthless checks on Atlanta firms, Thomas H. Hooker, 17, of Spokane, Wash., Wednesday was held to the grand jury under bonds aggregating $2,000 by Recorder A. W. Calloway.

Parties Searching Mount Washington For Lost Traveler

Gorham, N. C., October 14.—(AP)—A searching party on snow shoes left the Glen house in Pinkham Notch today for Turkeyman's ravine on Mount Washington to search for Max Englehart, believed to have been lost on the mountain. There was little hope of finding him alive.

Two weeks ago, he went to the summit of Mount Washington to serve as a caretaker for the old stage office.

A note was found in the building where Englehart was last seen, saying alone said he left for Turkeyman's ravine at 12 o'clock Saturday. There was a heavy snowfall and gale that day.

Searching parties yesterday found a few footprints in the snow a few hundred feet below the summit, near the headwall of the precipice over which leads the perilous trail to the ravine.

Englehart had spent winters in the woods in New Brunswick and British Columbia as a trapper.

WORLD SHIP BUILDING SHOWS BIG DECLINE

New York, October 14.—(AP)—A decline of more than 150,000 gross tons in world ship construction during the past three months, bringing the total tonnage building to the lowest level since the year, was reported today by Lloyd's Register of Shipping on a survey covering returns from all maritime countries for the quarter ending September 30. While general ship construction has been decreasing throughout the current year with the exception of motor vessels, the present return shows a decline in that line also, representing about 40,000 gross tons less than in the previous quarter.

Only increases were shown in Italy and Holland. Great Britain and Ireland reported a decrease of 84,000 gross tons, France of 19,000 gross tons, Germany of 17,000 gross tons, United States 22,000 tons. Germany showed the greatest drop of all, more than 100,000 tons.

There was little change in the ranking of the various leading shipbuilding nations during the past quarter. Great Britain and Ireland, Germany, Italy, France and Holland, retained their positions as the five largest shipbuilding nations in the world. Sweden broke into the ranks of nations with more than 50,000 tons under way and Japan merged into the list of "other countries" for the first time at the end of the last quarter having been only 59,000 tons. This brings the United States to the bottom of the list of nations for which individual returns are given. Denmark, whom she led in the June quarter, has pushed slightly ahead.

THE COUNTRY CALLS

Not a call to arms, but a call to the great outdoors. No time of the year is more entrancing than when fall advances, turns the leaves of spring and summer to a sere brown, and presents a sunset that adds many a seldom-seen tint to the varied colors of autumn. It is a call to take your auto and enjoy the beauties of nature. If you do not own a car, the way to do so is made easy by glancing along "Automobile Row" in the automotive columns of The Constitution's classified section. You will find surely among the many cars listed there the one that will fit your needs and help you to answer "The call of the country."

$3,000, two for $2,000, 50 for $1,000, and 50 for $500, making a total of $19,000.

Mr. Heinz later stated that his committee has not turned in all of its cards, many of them still being unsigned. The work of this committee was somewhat retarded because its members did not wish to interfere with the recent "Forward Atlanta" campaign, and it is just now getting into full swing. Mr. Heinz promises an equally large report by the end of the week.

Two campaign departments have not yet made reports. The Civic committee, under the direction of Lee Ashcraft, made no announcement, and no funds were turned in by the out-state executive committee because of the chairman, W. Bayne Gibson, is out of the city.

Only One Speech.

There was only one speech at the meeting, in accordance with General Chairman A. S. Adams' plan to keep the report interesting well within an hour's duration.

Henry C. Heinz was the speaker, and spoke confidently of the final outcome of the campaign. "We are going to raise a million dollars," he said. "I know that all the members of the executive committee are greatly pleased with this report. If Yaarab temple does not raise another cent, this campaign will have been a success, just because it has had such loyal support from the Shriners of Atlanta."

The campaign has been a great source of inspiration to me. I have enjoyed working with my brother Shriners more than I can tell you. It has been a privilege and a pleasure to meet and meet large numbers of men who wear the crescent and scimitar, whom I did not even know were members of Yaarab temple.

"You will all have, or perhaps have already had, the same experience. There could be nothing finer for the Shrine in Atlanta. We will just begin to work for the campaign and just begin to know our strength."

"It was high time that Yaarab got out of the temple something for herself. I'm glad that she is building a home. But I am equally glad that she did not act entirely on her own selfish interests. I think if there could be anything finer than this, it would be the building of a wonderful civic auditorium."

American Beauty Firestone Leases Deposed as Queen Land in Africa Of Cut Flowers To Grow Rubber

Chicago, Ill., October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American beauty rose has been completely deposed this fall as America's most popular cut flower and supplanted by a more commercial rose, the Premier. This typical sign of the times was disclosed today at the display of the Illinois Florists at the state products exposition here. These florists raise and ship to a radius of 1,500 miles from Chicago about one-third of all the nation's cut flowers; that is, the hot house flowers which have their principal season from October to June.

The account books showed the rose still the most popular of all cut flowers. Such prevailing factors as increasing ground rent and labor cost figure in the deposition of the American beauty. It requires one-third more ground space and produces but half as many roses for the same amount of work as its usurper, the Premier.

Chicago owes its position as the leading cut flower center to the effects of Lake Michigan and to rail facilities. The lake produces, for hot house purposes, a comparatively high humidity and a fairly even temperature. Its winter haze is a special factor in aiding floriculture; this fall, for example, holding back rose development to insure blossoming for the holiday trade. The city's green houses cover 30,000,000 square feet and the annual output markets for 15,000,000 wholesale.

Florists are offering a new color scheme this fall, in a purple-blue carnation, a flower produced from nine years crossing and selection by a Chicago florist. Statistics are not available on carnation popularity, but it ranks a close second to the rose.

FAIRBANKS TEARS ONE RIB LOOSE FILMING SCENE

Hollywood, Calif., October 14.—(AP)—Two much athletic vim was displayed by Douglas Fairbanks in helping his leading lady to the top of a ship cabin during the filming of a scene and caused one of his ribs to tear loose from his breast bone.

The accident occurred four days ago, when Fairbanks was filming a scene in which he was to be rescued from a sinking ship. The film star did not realize the extent of his injury until today.

an authority in financial circles and one of the most sought-after speakers in public life, is expected to be the center of a great ovation here. Few men are as well known and his vigorous Americanism has marked his brilliant career in public life for many years. As a general in the world war he received the highest praises and thanks of the nation and following the war's close achieved perhaps one of the greatest triumphs in international affairs when his plan for bringing order out of world economic chaos was agreed to by "Davies plan" and was successfully put into effect.

Well Known Here.

General Daves came to Atlanta soon after the declaration of war with Germany and organized and trained the 17th engineers on temporary training grounds at the Woodward Lumber company yards. He later took the regiment to France and soon after reaching France was promoted to be brigadier general and performed conspicuous services with the expeditionary forces throughout the war.

During his six months' stay in Atlanta while training the regiment, he met hundreds of Atlantans. He formed many strong friendships while here and is particularly fond of Atlanta and its people.

The fact that he is known personally to many Atlantans and has often expressed the desire to be able to come here again, is expected to result in a tremendous throng greeting him at the auditorium tonight.

A special section of 800 seats has been set apart in the auditorium for negroes.

'Uneducated Men' in Charge Of Navy, Says Admiral Sims; Calls Mitchell 'Bully Fellow'

Present Low Morale Among Naval Officials Is Laid to Lack of Confidence in Leaders.

Washington, October 14.—(AP)—The root of present troubles in the American navy was ascribed today by Rear Admiral William S. Sims, retired, its wartime commander, to a lack of confidence in its leaders.

Testifying before the president's air board, the admiral declared that naval air development was retarded by a policy "almost unbelievably" conservative, and that administration of the whole naval force was conducted by "uneducated men."

Admiral Sims was the first of several witnesses, among whom were Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, for the last two years commander of the United States fleet; Rear Admiral George C. Block, chief of the ordnance bureau; Rear Admiral Davis W. Taylor, retired, and Captain William S. Pye, assistant director of the naval war plans division.

Mitchell Is 'Bully Good Fellow.' Although opposing Colonel William Mitchell's plan for a department of national defense, as did all others testifying today, Admiral Sims asserted: "Mitchell is a bully good fellow, who deserves a lot of praise for arousing a national interest in the aviation situation."

The admiral took frequent occasion to express his opinion of those now running the navy, particularly "the Daniels cabinet and its friends," who, he asserted, are still in the saddle. He also was asked by Senator Bingham, of Connecticut, a member of the board, for his opinion on testimony by Secretary Wilbur that control of the air was impossible so long as the enemy had one plane aloft.

"I wonder who told him that," he replied. "If but one plane is left, I wouldn't worry very much. That remark of the secretary, although he does not suspect it, doesn't mean anything at all."

Lack Confidence in Leaders. He said present "low morale" in the navy was due to a lack of confidence in its leadership, criticized ranking officers for failure to adopt a definite air program and held that naval management in general was "unreasonable, unscientific and un-military."

"The navy has been controlled for many years," he asserted, "by uneducated men and untrained officers who have been assigned to the most important positions."

Admiral Coontz, in opposing the separate air corps plan, asserted that "electricity, ordnance, gunnery, submarines and other new things" had been mastered and that aviation would soon find its proper place.

Must Have Aviator's Qualities. An officer could devote much time to aviation, he said, and still acquire sufficient knowledge of other naval duties to aspire to command of the fleet. If a naval officer is to get "very far along the road," he must possess all the qualities of an aviator, the admiral explained.

Questioned as to the advisability of holding new tests to determine the effect of aerial bombing and anti-aircraft fire on airplanes, he said he doubted if "you could get anything out of them" as war conditions could not be imitated satisfactorily and they produce erroneous conclusions.

Admiral Claude C. Bloch testified that the navy was developing an anti-aircraft gun estimated to be four times superior to anything in use, but he felt the modern battleship was "far more capable of resisting an air attack than any of us have stated."

Captain Pye expressed the opinion that Colonel Mitchell had made "quite a concession" in the last year in his proposed reorganization of the national defense. Since the colonel testified in favor of the Curry bill, the last congress, he said, his concession had been so great "that it is quite plain that the hook has been baited with the biggest bait he thought might be swallowed."

He regarded the proposed department of national defense as endorsed by Colonel Mitchell and Major General Mason M. Patrick, army air chief, as "unground in theory and impractical of operation," and charged the colonel with inconsistency in his testimony.

LABOR TO SUPPORT STRIKING MINERS

Atlantic City, N. J., October 14.—(AP)—Support of the American Federation of Labor was accorded the 158,000 striking miners in the anthracite field today, after President John L. Lewis, of the United Mine Workers, had addressed the delegates and stirred them to enthusiasm by his recital of conditions in the industry.

Mr. Lewis said the miners would not fail to depart from the policy laid down and he warned the public it was due for a "rude awakening" if it believed there was an ample supply of coal on hand.

Adopt 50 Resolutions. The convention adopted more than 50 resolutions of varied character to aid and pave the way for adjournment Monday night.

Officers will be elected tomorrow afternoon and selection of next year's convention city will also be made. It was understood that Detroit or Sacramento, Calif., were the most highly favored, with Birmingham, Ala., and Montreal also contenders.

Among the outstanding resolutions adopted today was one protesting against the "unjustified" opposition to "injunction abuses," but going a step further by advocating legislative enactment to limit the power of equity courts.

Vice President Charles G. Dawes came in for condemnation for "conducting an agitation for the purpose of abolishing free speech in the United States senate, the only forum where closure does not exist and where members can prevent the passage of reactionary legislation."

"The people should awaken to the fact," said the resolution adopted, "that the agitation for closure does not come from the people but from the secret chambers of the predatory interests."

"It is a vicious idea, a vicious purpose to which the vice president has loaned his name," it continued, "and to expose this un-American proposal."

The convention voted to refer to the executive council of the federation a resolution disavowing and calling for an international conference in Washington in the spring of 1926.

Another resolution said: "Against the communist boring from within we recommend that drastic action which the surgeon takes against a malignant growth . . . removal of all affected tissues. To temporize is to endanger the health of the whole organization."

The convention non-concurred on a resolution protesting against militarism through the military training camps.

The convention, however, went on record as being "emphatically opposed to militarism," but that "it is like wise opposed to that pacifism that believes that never under any circumstances should we prepare for our national defense."

WILLIAMS ACTS AS OWN LAWYER; FREED BY JURY

C. R. Williams, candy maker of 197 Glenwood avenue, Wednesday acted as his own attorney in United States court here when arraigned on a charge of violation of the national prohibition laws and today is a free man.

The defendant was charged with having been in possession of liquor in his place of business when Federal Prohibition Officer John W. Nations raided the place several weeks ago. He denied he did not know of the presence of the contraband and that a man by the name of Armstrong, who worked for him at the time, already had assumed responsibility for the hidden rum. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty. Judge Samuel H. Sibbey, of the northern district of Georgia, presided at the trial.

CATTLEMAN HOLD CLOSING SESSION

Improved pasture land in Georgia is increasing at the rate of 100 per cent annually, according to Professor Paul Tabor, of the state college of agriculture, in an address to the Southern Cattleman's association, in its fourteenth convention here.

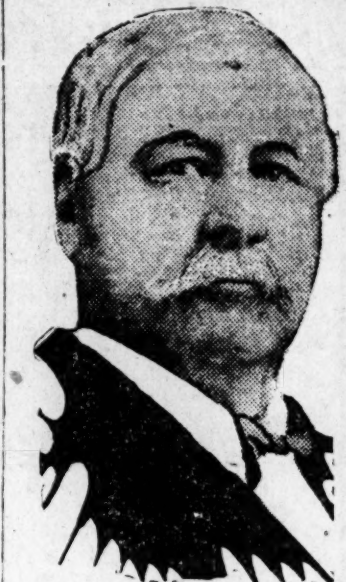

Professor Tabor as a principal speaker on Wednesday's program, which marked the close of the three-day session, gave a comprehensive survey of "The Pasture Problem," with particular reference to Georgia.

"Georgia has made real progress during the last five years in building permanent pastures in the coastal plain section of the state. From 1919, when a small start was made in pasture building until 1925, the acreage of improved permanent pastures has increased 100 per cent each year. This might be called one of the recent progressive developments in Georgia's agricultural growth, and in potential importance it may rank close to the tobacco expansion, the dairy development, the increase of soy bean acreage and the growing of vetch for soil improvements," Professor Tabor said.

FLORISTS ELECT BROWN PRESIDENT

Charles H. Brown, of New York, Wednesday was reelected president of Florists Telegraph Delivery Association of the United States and Canada. Other officers are: W. J. Smythe, of Chicago, vice president; Tom Joy, of Nashville, Herman Schiller, of Chicago and Mrs. Gertrude Schultheis, of Scranton, Pa., directors. Chicago was chosen as the meeting place for the conference in 1926.

A feature of the Wednesday morning session at the Biltmore was the wiring of flowers to King George, of England. By special arrangement with the Western Union Telegraph company, the dispatch was cabled direct from the Biltmore hotel to Buckingham palace. The flowers were delivered through London member of the F. T. D.

Message Sent King.

The message to King George read as follows: "To His Majesty, the King of England, 'Buckingham Palace, London, England: 'On the occasion of the assembly of the International convention of the members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association at Atlanta, Ga., the delegates assembled pray your majesty to accept the accompanying floral gift as a tribute of their respect."

"Atlanta members, Ralph Deans, chairman, and Mrs. Deans, and Mrs. Schiller, of Scranton, Pa., were present."

The following reply was received: "President Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, Atlanta, Ga. 'I am commanded to convey to the delegates the thanks of the king for the floral gift and for the kind assurance to which the telegram gives expression.'"

Arbitration Urged.

Carl Englemann, of England, and Fred Mills, of Chicago, were principal speakers at the Wednesday afternoon session. Charles R. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, introduced a resolution written by Chief Justice Grossman, of Pennsylvania, supreme court, which was unanimously passed pledging the support of the F. T. D. to a system of arbitration in which civil cases, involving commercial disputes, may be settled without court action. Mr. Grakelow stated that in view of the fact that the courts are already congested, business organizations should do everything in their power to assist in relieving the situation.

Mrs. Irving B. Gresham was hostess at luncheon Wednesday for visiting women at the Druid Hills golf club. Mrs. Walter A. Sims and Mrs. Newton C. Wing were principal speakers.

With all business concluded today, the last day of the conference will be given over to sightseeing and entertainment. The sightseeing tours will include visits to Stone Mountain, the Cyclopath at Grant park, and races at the Southeastern fair. A barbecue will be given at Lakewood park this afternoon.

FAIRBURN MUST PAY $400 JUDGMENT HIGH COURT RULES

The city of Fairburn was ordered Wednesday to pay a special tax and pay off a judgment that is more than 12 years old, because notice of a motion for a new trial never was served on the plaintiff, according to a ruling of the Georgia supreme court.

The decision is contained in the case of S. H. Brantley against the city of Fairburn. Brantley filed the claim for $400 for damages said to have been done to his property in grading. Complainant obtained judgment, but a fi fa was issued against the city in 1913. The case recently was revived in Campbell superior court and Judge John B. Hutcheson ordered the city to pay the fine.

An appeal was taken but the supreme court issued a rule absolute to force the city to pay the judgment.

CHURCH DISCLAIMS DRY LAW REPORT

Washington, October 14.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Methodist Protestant church, in a statement today, disavowed the recent series of articles on prohibition issued through the church by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Declaring the articles had been the occasion "for enemies of prohibition to boast that now at last even the churches themselves had been forced to admit that prohibition is a failure," the statement protested "against the assumption printed on the pamphlet that it has been prepared and published under the authority of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America."

"Whether the conclusions and statements of that pamphlet are true or false," it continued, "this committee does not feel it necessary to pass judgment. But we desire to make this clear, that while the Methodist Protestant church has been in affiliation with the federal council from its inception, it has never authorized the council as a whole or any officer, department or commission of that council, to speak authoritatively for it on any question of religion, morals or politics."

The church's attitude differed widely from statements made in the articles, it said, and suggested that the time has come for the churches to determine the meaning to be included in the title of "Federal Churches of Christ in America."

"Protestantism," it concluded, "is not inclined to an oligarchy, even of wise and pious men, and the present tendency of the council would seem to require a new definition of its title."

local members of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the visitors got down to business this morning at 11 o'clock. It was announced that General D. B. McKeen, state commander, called the reunion to order at 10 o'clock in the municipal auditorium.

Stirring scenes were enacted during the morning. When General Morgan called on division Chaplain W. D. Hammock for an opening prayer the latter burst into the strains of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," the song being taken up quickly by the assembled veterans and others, and being followed by a strong prayer of thanksgiving for having been spared to attend another reunion.

Twigs Memorialized. General Nat E. Harris, chairman of the committee, appointed to draw up a memorial to General Alfred Twigs, state commander for two years, spoke briefly and introduced General W. S. Jones, of Augusta, who read an eloquent eulogy of the deceased commander.

Mrs. O. D. Culpepper and Mrs. George W. Thomas, of Albany, brought tears to the eyes of the old soldiers when they sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told."

Welcoming the veterans on behalf of the city of Albany, Mayor E. H. Kalmon offered police assistance to secure anything the visitors desired. Welcoming addresses were also made by J. B. D. Spencer, Jr., of the local camp, Sons of Veterans, and from the churches by Rev. J. N. Peacock, pastor of the Methodist church.

General J. A. Thomas, responding to the addresses of welcome, protested against the lavish hospitality of Albanians, declaring that the veterans were actually ashamed to accept it.

Dr. W. A. Dancy, speaking for the Georgia division of the Sons of Veterans urged a movement to have histories of the civil war corrected, declaring that many inaccurate statements are to be found in histories in the state schools and that the cause for which the south fought is too often misrepresented. General W. B. Freeman was scheduled to speak at the morning session, but was unable to attend.

Following adjournment at 1 o'clock the veterans were carried to the local fair ground where they were served a barbecue dinner.

Governor Clifford Walker was informed late Wednesday night by The Constitution of the veterans action, but said that he had no statement to make until he has given the matter thought.

In a recent opinion, Assistant Attorney General Thomas R. Gress said that the scrip bill is not "worth the paper it is written on," and is unconstitutional because it creates a debt on the state when the constitution states that the state's debt shall only be increased by a temporary deficit not to exceed $500,000, to repel invasion or suppress insurrection.

Mayberry and Wright Freed by DeKalb Jury In Assault Case

Decatur, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—After deliberating about three hours today, the jury in the case of J. L. Mayberry and J. M. Wright, returned a verdict of "not guilty." The men were tried in DeKalb superior court charged with assault upon N. J. Cash, in a home near Brookhaven, last December.

Cash was shot when a band of men visited a house at Brookhaven at which he was calling, the state contended. The men were repelled in an alleged attack on Cash by shots said to have been fired by a woman, it was claimed, and Mayberry and Wright were members of the alleged raiding party, the state claimed.

The contention of the defendants was that they were not present at the scene of the alleged attack on the night stated.

Ed Glenn, negro, pleaded guilty to a charge of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death of a negro woman, Henrietta Turner, about two months ago and was sentenced to serve from 10 to 15 years in the penitentiary. The woman was killed, it was alleged, when Glenn fired at another negro while attending a fish-ry on Mason avenue.

Judge John B. Hutcheson is presiding at the session of DeKalb superior court.

"Practically all the midway attractions, likewise, are under stout roofs, either of metal or of canvas, where visitors who come for entertainment as well as for inspection of the educational features, can enjoy themselves in comfort and perfect safety from the weather."

"The grandstand, in front of which the feature entertainments of afternoon and night are held, will accommodate more than 3,000 people under its roof, keeping them dry and snug regardless of weather conditions, besides the other thousands of seats which are not covered by the roof."

"The nearly $250,000 worth of concrete and tile paving, connecting all exposition buildings and giving frontage for the entire midway, making walking easy and free from the inconvenience of mud, regardless of weather conditions."

Weather No Bar. "We know that tens of thousands of people in Atlanta and tens of thousands have been waiting for clear weather for their visit to the fair; we know that more thousands than ever before want to come because thousands of people who had never attended before have passed through the gates during the first week. Clear weather, however, is not at all essential to enjoyment of the Southeastern fair. It is an all-weather exposition and an all-weather show."

EXPERT TELLS OF SIMPLE REMEDY FOR A LAME BACK

Any Man or Woman Can Get Rid of Lame, Achy Back
FAMOUS ATHLETIC TRAINER TELLS IT

"During my twenty years' training of athletes, both men and women, I have handled so many lame, achy backs and shoulders, I'm convinced anyone can speedily and surely relieve themselves of every sign of hurt and pain," declares Mike Martin, famous athletic trainer, trained nurse, Swedish masseur and all-around expert, who now is in charge of the Washington Ball Team. It is he who looks after the injuries of men like Walter Johnson, Coveleski, etc. Thousands of women suffer this way and it's a shame. A baseball fan told me recently his wife after the baby came suffered agony with lame back. She couldn't sleep for suffering. I told him how we fix up a man's back in a jiffy. I gave him a bottle of the liniment we use. He took it home and next day he said: "Mike, the nurse rubbed the wife with that magical liniment of yours and in an hour she was asleep and in the morning the pain and ache was gone."

They pay me to handle these high-priced baseball stars and keep them free of aches and pains. I naturally use the best liniment money can buy. In fact, I was so dissatisfied with liniment you can buy that I employed chemists to make me one—no matter what it cost—they did. I was amazed at the difference. Professional athletes and trainers all over the country began writing and talking about "Mike Martin's Liniment." They all use it.

Newspaper men, druggists and fans have convinced me I should turn this liniment loose to the public so anybody no matter how poor can get to the bottle when they need it. I've therefore arranged with a big concern to do the detail work, and the reader can get it at the drug store with a folder around it telling just how to use it in the big league. I'm not trying to make a fortune out of it. I love baseball too much to quit it and go into the patent medicine business. I don't want a nickel from anybody who isn't helped and helped right, so I'd consider it a favor if any person not benefited would write me so I can send them the book with the bottle cost them. "I know it's used right, the user will be pleasantly surprised," declares Mike Martin, Trainer of the C. St. N. W. Washington, D. C. Drop in at a good drug store and get a bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment. Throat bottle, 50c; 4-oz. bottle, 75c; 8-oz. $1.00; or write to Mike Martin for the size you want parcels post. He will send it.—(adv.)

Six Citizens and Southern Employees Promoted; Advances Declared Due To Increase in Business

Promotions of six employees of the Citizens and Southern bank were announced Wednesday by H. Lane Young, executive manager of the Atlanta Institution. "These promotions," Mr. Young stated, "have been made necessary by the increase in the volume of business as the bank has enjoyed a gain of 30 per cent in deposits and 53 per cent in loans during the past year."

In accordance with our policy, the men who have rendered the greatest service to the bank have been promoted to official positions of responsibility and greater trust than they have ever held before," Mr. Young said.

The promotions were made at a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday afternoon.

Those receiving promotions were:

Thomas I. Miller, former cashier of the central office in the Candler building, who was made vice president of the central office; E. T. Johnson, former cashier of the Tenth street office, who was made assistant vice president of the main office at Broad and Marietta streets; C. E. Shepard, former cashier of the Mitchell street office, who was made assistant vice president of the main office; L. David, formerly in charge of loans and discounts, who was made assistant cashier of the central office; C. L. Sharpe, who was promoted from head teller to cashier of the Mitchell street office, and James Sartor, former general auditor, who was made cashier of the Tenth street office.

Mr. Miller, a native of Corinth, Georgia in 1912 and immediately became connected with the Central Bank and Trust corporation. He was made assistant cashier of that institution in 1920. With the merger of the Central and the Citizens and Southern bank in 1922 he became cashier of the central office which position he has held since that time.

He has been an active member of the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking and also holds a responsible position in the chapter. He is president of the alumni organization of the Delta Tau Delta scholastic fraternity.

Mr. Johnson, a native of Atlanta, was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1910. He has been with the Citizens and Southern bank since 1921. He was made assistant cashier in 1920. Following the merger of the Citizens and Southern bank since 1921, he was made cashier of the Tenth street branch. He is vice president of the Atlanta chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

Mr. Shepard, a native of Fort Valley, attended college at Emory university. He was connected with the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta for three years and joined the Central bank in 1920. In 1923, after the merger, he was made cashier of the Mitchell street office of the Citizens and Southern bank.

Mr. David, a native of Roswell, was an official in the Roswell bank for several years. He went to Dublin, where he accepted the position of cashier of the Southern Exchange bank in 1910. He has been with the Atlanta bank since 1921.

Mr. Sharpe, a native of Bufala, Ala., has been connected with the Citizens and Southern bank since 1921. Mr. Sartor was connected with the Carolina National bank before joining the Southern in 1921.

One Quart Costs Sandow, World's Fine of $750 and Strongest Man, Year's Sentence Dies Suddenly

W. W. Darnell, Atlanta grocer, was found guilty of violating the prohibition law Wednesday in the criminal court of Atlanta and was given a fine of $750 and sentenced to serve 12 months on the chain gang by Judge Jesse M. Wood.

Darnell was arrested by E. S. Acree, chief of the vice squad of the Atlanta police department, on September 26. He is alleged to have had in his possession at 150 Mitchell street one quart of corn whiskey.

Darnell was represented by former State Senator Ernest M. Smith, of McDonough, Ga., and Judge W. W. Tindall. The case was prosecuted by Assistant Solicitor A. C. Minnietter, Jr., for the state.

There are four other misdemeanor cases pending against Darnell. He is slated to go on trial on the other cases this morning. Each count charges possession of liquor.

Immediately following his conviction, Darnell posted a $1,000 bond in his own name.

West Alexander street, who lives on West Alexander street, was found guilty of possessing liquor and was sentenced by Judge Wood to 10 months at the state farm at Milledgeville.

County policemen testified that Mrs. Thompson had previously been before the court on a charge of operating a car while under the influence of liquor and that several weeks ago they found a quantity of corn liquor at her residence.

Grand Jury Will Probe Woolworth Jewel Theft Unless Thief Is Caught

New York, October 14.—A grand jury investigation into the theft of the Woolworth jewels, valued at $683,000, will resume unless the thief is caught in a week.

This was promised by Assistant District Attorney Pecora after another conference with Noel C. Scaffa, the private detective who returned the jewels late Tuesday. The statement spiked rumors that the case was closed.

Scaffa, police say, received the stolen jewels from an intermediary. The name of the "go-between," as given by Scaffa to the police, means nothing to them, and it is said that Scaffa probably was given a fictitious name.

There are two possible clues in the case. One lies in the fact that a beaded handbag was among the jewels when they were stolen. Mrs. Jessie Woolworth Donahue, daughter of the late F. W. Woolworth, the five-and-ten-cent store magnate, was in her bath in her suite at the Plaza hotel September 30.

When Scaffa returned the two missing pearls necklace and the diamond ring, the jewels were not in the handbag. If the bag turns up, the police may be able to trace it to the thief.

The other possible clue is the fact that a hotel employee who recently left the Plaza is being hunted. The entire case has been handled in a close-mouthed manner. Neither Scaffa, Pecora, Mr. or Mrs. Donahue has revealed much to the public.

There are a number of highly interesting rumors about the various circumstances.

DEFENDANT COLD, SPECTATORS WARM AT MURDER TRIAL

Hendersonville, N. C., October 14.—(AP)—Numerous defense witnesses testified today that Bonnie B. Brooks was mentally deranged when he shot and killed former Mayor Samuel Y. Bryson August 6, last. Brooks is on trial here for murder. His attorneys have set up plans of insanity and self-defense.

Brooks was killed in a pistol duel with Brooks after the men had quarreled over Bryson's alleged attentions to the woman. The defense attorneys will also attend the Vanderbilt semi-centennial on Thursday.

He will return to Macon Monday.

CHEROKEE TRAIL GETS HIGH ENDORSEMENT

Canton, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Following the motorcycle ride to Gainesville a few weeks ago, the Cherokee Trail association, which is working for a highway across north Georgia from Rome to Gainesville, has received many messages of endorsement from citizens of north Georgia, who strongly endorse the proposed route and urge its early completion.

The Cherokee Trail association has filed formal application with the state highway board for the inclusion of the mileage from Rome to Gainesville, through Bartow, Cherokee, Forsyth, and Hall counties, as a part of the state highway system. The mileage to be used in Floyd county is already on the highway system, and improvement thereof practically completed. Chairman Tullin of the board of county commissioners of Hall county has applied to the state highway board for the inclusion of the Hall county mileage as part of the state system, while County Commissioner Olin Finch, of Cherokee county, has made like application on behalf of his county.

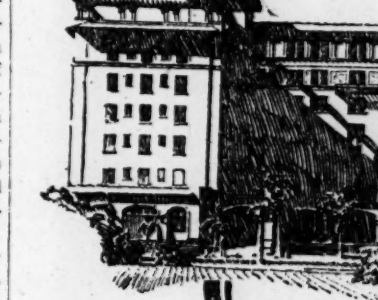

Judge Tidwell, ordinary of Forsyth county, who is also county commissioner, has approved the Cherokee trail road building project and will support the proposition to place the road on the state highway system.

Petitions signed by many hundreds of citizens in north Georgia asking for the building of this highway are being received by the association. Farmers especially are awaking to the possibilities this proposed highway holds for them and are calling in person at the office of the association to urge their interest in the matter. The greater part of this route runs through the drought-stricken area, especially toward the east of Canton, and hundreds of farmers are anxious for a chance to work on the new highway inasmuch as their crops are almost a total failure, and they are facing the severity of the winter season.

There is no cross-state highway north of Atlanta, while there are eight across the state below the capital city. The Cherokee trail, as proposed will be 44 miles from Atlanta at the nearest point. It runs through a territory rich in agricultural and mineral possibilities and with unexcelled climate. The population to be directly served has been conservatively estimated at 140,000, while the Georgia legislature has authorized the state to acquire the right of way at both ends of the route.

The association has requested a hearing which the state highway board has agreed to give, at which time petitions and facts and figures will be laid before the board giving ample reasons for the inclusion of this historic and necessary route as a part of the highway system of Georgia. Headquarters for the proposed road are at Canton.

IF YOU LIKE IT OUR EFFORTS WILL NOT HAVE BEEN IN VAIN

The amazing growth of St. Petersburg is due to the excellent accommodations found here. The Sarnia, for example, is one of the most beautiful hotels in the world. It was built by Geo. A. Miller Co., contractors, Tampa, with Lehigh Cement supplied by Dan-Grove Co., Inc., St. Petersburg.

A MILLION new residents in ten years

MORE than a million new residents have come to the South-east in ten years! They have come to enjoy the climate, live in Southern cities and towns, and to invest their labor and dollars in helping develop the resources.

The entire country has focused its attention on this development. New homes, new roads, modern skyscrapers and factories are being built in all parts of the South. It is a great opportunity. The South can be a land of permanent prosperity, a land of happiness and contentment for those who live there today and for their children.

Into every building project put dependable materials and competent workmanship. Otherwise this prosperity may become merely a "land boom," not a sound development, while repair bills and replacement costs would use up expected profits.

The important point in all construction is to select a good contractor. It is safe to rely on the responsible contractor for dependable materials and competent workmanship. This combination brings permanent satisfaction.

From the great Lehigh mills, which are located at Birmingham, Ala., and at Fordwick, Pa., the South is securing the most dependable cement that can be produced. Dependability has made Lehigh the most asked-for cement in the world with 19 mills from coast to coast.

Both men are seeking the place as national republican committeemen from Georgia to succeed Henry Lincoln Johnson.

FUNERAL AT ELBERTON FOR JUDGE P. W. DAVIS

Elberton, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—The funeral of Judge Philip W. Davis, who died yesterday morning at his home in Lexington, was held here this afternoon at the First Baptist church. Dr. W. M. Coile, of Winterville, a life-long friend, officiated. The funeral was largely attended, the interment taking place in Elmhurst cemetery.

Judge Davis was well known in the state and had achieved a high place among Georgia's notable men. He was married and had two children, Phil W. Davis, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla., and Miss Melissa Davis, of Elberton, survive him.

and who will greatly benefit by the highway are estimated at 500,000. No road project now being considered, it is pointed out, has greater claim than the Cherokee trail, which touches all five highways now running north and south through north Georgia.

The association has requested a hearing which the state highway board has agreed to give, at which time petitions and facts and figures will be laid before the board giving ample reasons for the inclusion of this historic and necessary route as a part of the highway system of Georgia. Headquarters for the proposed road are at Canton.

SPANISH TROOPS ADVANCE LINES AGAINST RIFFIANS

Alhucemas, Spanish Morocco, October 14.—(AP)—Spanish troops attacked the Riffian positions at dawn yesterday in the valleys southwest of Ajdir, Abd-el-Krim's capital, and succeeded in advancing to a depth of a half mile, according to the latest dispatches from Calaquequedo. The troops were supported by artillery fire and airplanes and encountered small resistance.

The positions were consolidated by 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The attacking force consisted of the Spanish foreign legion and native troops. The casualties were one officer and five men wounded. A number of prisoners were captured.

The dispatch adds that the weather is good and the morale of the Spanish troops excellent, now that they are in easier territory.

FAILURE TO KEEP PLEDGE TO COURT COSTLY TO TURNER

Failure to keep his promise to the court Wednesday cost C. C. Turner 65 Fowler street, a fine of $16, or thirty days, and revocation of his suspended sentence of 30 days.

The Turner case was brought up on a charge of failure to support his wife and children. The recorder imposed a 30 days' sentence, suspending it upon the defendant's promise to provide for his family.

Probation Officer John W. Hollingsworth reported that Turner failed to keep his pledge and he was brought back before the recorder for sentence.

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup
Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any drugist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a cough remedy that is really better than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your drugist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

MADDOX MAY BE GIVEN ROME JUDICIAL POST

Strong probability that James Maddox, former solicitor of the city court of Rome, will be appointed judge of the Rome judicial circuit by Governor Clifford Walker to succeed the late Judge Moses Wright, arose Wednesday night when Governor Walker declared that he may decide today on the appointment.

Mr. Maddox is one of the most prominent figures in the list of those who are mentioned for the place, and is a brother of one of Governor Walker's closest friends, Ed Maddox, of Rome, who was tendered the appointment but declined.

Governor Walker today will be without the services of a private secretary, as Matthew C. Bennett, his secretary, will assume new duties as chief examiner of the Georgia securities commission. The governor said Wednesday night that he has not yet selected a private secretary to succeed Mr. Bennett, and it is probable that it will be several days before he does so.

Orrin Roberts, of Monroe, has not replied to the offer of a post on the public service commission, though he has indicated through a recent statement in The Constitution that he will probably accept Governor Walker's expectations to hear from Mr. Roberts within the very near future regarding the appointment.

Aged Veteran Passes As C. A. Howell Dies; Final Rites Today

Charles A. Howell, Confederate veteran, died late Wednesday afternoon in his eightieth year. He retired from active business about ten years ago and of his own volition entered the Confederate Veterans' home of this city as a pay resident in order that he might spend the last years of his life among his old army comrades.

He was born in Warsaw, then Forsyth, now Milton county, and was the son of the late Judge Clark Howell who moved to Atlanta with his family in 1848. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Mary Howell Young, and three grandsons, one brother, Colonel Albert Howell, Sr., and one sister, Mrs. Park Woodward.

Mr. Howell, fresh from the Georgia Military academy at Marietta, entered the Confederate service early during the war, serving under his brother, the late Captain Evan P. Howell, of Howell's battery.

After the war he located at Duluth in Gwinnett county, near the place of his birth, conducting a general merchandise business there for many years, after which he came to Atlanta, living for many years on his property abutting the Chattahoochee river at Paces Ferry road, where he owned many acres of land.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son, funeral directors.

Atlanta Librarian Delegation Leaves For State Meeting

Atlanta's delegation of librarians will leave today for the two-day convention of the Georgia Library association to be held October 15-16 at Indian Springs and Jackson.

Among those who are to attend are Mrs. J. K. Otley, chairman of the Georgia Library commission; Miss Beverly Wheatcroft, secretary of the association; Mrs. Maud Barker Cobb, state librarian; Miss Ruth Blair, state historian and Miss Margaret Jonsson, librarian of Emory university.

The following will represent the Carnegie library of Atlanta: Misses Tommie Dora Barker, Fannie Hutton, Eugenia Reed, Eleanor Harrison and Kathleen Hines.

Miss Charlotte Temple, former secretary of the Georgia library commission, is slated to deliver one of the principal addresses at the convention. It is expected that more than 50 librarians representing principal cities throughout the state will attend. Delegates will be guests of the Jackson Kiwanis club Friday, assisted by the Woman's club of Jackson. Meetings of the convention will be held at Indian Springs.

FORMER FORSYTH MAN DIES IN FLORIDA

Forsyth, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Forsyth relatives and friends of Claude E. Reid, 21, were shocked to learn of his sudden death in Miami last night. Mr. Reid had lived in this city practically all of his life, moving to Macon and later to the Florida city.

Besides his widow and young son, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. R. R. Reid, of Forsyth; one brother, Robert Reid, of Forsyth; two sisters, Mrs. P. W. Pittman, of Macon, and Mrs. S. L. Taylor, of Forsyth.

The funeral and interment will take place in Macon Thursday.

FLORIDA TEACHERS TO MEET AT ORLANDA

Orlando, Fla., October 14.—(AP)—The east central Florida division institute of the Florida Educational association will convene here tomorrow morning for a two-day session.

Teachers from six counties will be in attendance. The six counties forming the institute are Orange, Seminole, Volusia, Lake, Osceola and Brevard.

The program arranged calls for general meetings in the mornings, when teachers will be addressed by leading educators and for group classes in the afternoons, when the specialized work of the teachers will be discussed. Tomorrow morning Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, of New York, president of the Institute of Mechanical Arts, will speak of the "Art of Living."

Schools in the six counties will be closed tomorrow and Friday.

President Coolidge's Plea For Tolerance

"LET US CAST OFF OUR HATREDS" said President Coolidge in his address to the American Legion Convention at Omaha. "Whether one traces his Americanism back three centuries to the Mayflower, or three years to the steerage, is not half so important as whether his Americanism of to-day is real and genuine. No matter by what various crafts we came here, we are all now in the same boat."

The Omaha World-Herald, politically opposed to the President, sees him rising "to the heights of sagacious statesmanship and courageous leadership." Another Democratic journal, the New York World, pays tribute to the insight, intelligence, force, wisdom, courage, and tolerance of the President's discourse on the folly of hysteria and the perils of intolerance.

In "The Literary Digest" this week, the October 17th number, there is a summary of the President's address, together with public opinion upon it, as reflected in leading newspapers of all political faiths.

French Bitterness Over the Debt Proposal

The old saying that if you want to lose a friend, the best way is to lend him money, occurs to some in view of the virulence of French press comment on the subject of the debt proposal Mr. Caillaux took back to Paris. Some Paris newspapers laud him as having rejected America's attempt to fetter France in chains for a century, and this man, who once was banished to a section of his country remote from the capital, and about whom there were outspoken accusations of treason, now, it appears, is hailed as the "savior of France from slavery to the American Shylock."

"The Literary Digest" this week presents translations from the French press showing the reaction of the people upon the temporary debt settlement.

South Planning To Wage Battle in Next Congress For Voice in Trade Control

Democrats Joined by Independent Republicans Who Are Opposed To Woodlock Appointment.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.

Washington, October 14.—The south, forging ahead rapidly as an industrial section, is preparing to wage a fight in the next congress for representation on two agencies of the government which have to do with commerce and business—the interstate commerce commission and tariff commission.

At the present time, neither of these two important independent agencies has a member from the southeast or southwest. Southern members of congress feel that the section has been slighted, and with its recent trend toward industrial power will necessarily require representation, as both of these agencies have authority in important commercial fields.

There was a rumble of dissatisfaction last year because of the lack of representation. It is growing stronger and will break forth in earnest in the coming congress.

Fight to Be Negative.

The fight for a place on the interstate commerce commission will take

MURRAY ELECTED EPISCOPAL LEADER

New Orleans, October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Rt. Rev. John Gardner Murray, of Baltimore, bishop of Maryland, today was elected presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America. The election was reached by the house of bishops in the late afternoon and completed when the house of deputies concurred in the action of the bishops.

With eight candidates nominated by the house of bishops yesterday, early in the morning, after holy communion in St. Paul's church, and when no decision had been reached at luncheon, a recess was taken, the bishops reconvening in their convention hall, where the forty-eight triennial general convention is being held.

Several Ballots Taken.
Several ballots were taken after the recess before a message was sent to the deputies informing that house of an election.

Bishop Murray, who is 68 years of age, was engaged in business for 12 years before entering the ministry at the age of 36. He was born in Lonsington, Md. He prepared for the ministry at Wyoming seminary, Kingston, Pa., and Drew Theological seminary, Madison, N. J., but at the death of his father was forced to abandon his plans for the moment and become a bookkeeper, in 1881, for a coal and iron company, at Selma, Ala.

In 1892 he had advanced to the vice presidency of this company and was also a banker and broker in Selma. He was made a deacon in 1893 and a priest a year later, being given charge of eight congregations on the Alabama river between Montgomery and Mobile.

Rector at Birmingham.

He was rector of the Church of the Advent, Birmingham, Ala., from 1896 to 1903, when he became rector of the church of St. Michael and All Angels, Baltimore, Md., the largest Episcopal church south of Philadelphia.

Shortly after going to Baltimore he was elected bishop of Mississippi in 1903, and succeeded Bishop Paret as bishop of Maryland in 1911.

He was the first president of the province of Washington, composed of the dioceses of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia, resigning to represent the province on the national council.

A member of his diocese characterized the new primate as "the most universally beloved man in Baltimore since the death of Cardinal Gibbons."

Bishop Murray declared after the election that, upon being elected to such an office as that bestowed upon him, "all a man feels is a sense of insufficiency." He added that he had not recovered from such a feeling.

Bishop Murray was succeeded as rector of the Church of St. Michael and All Angels by Bishop Charles Fiske, of Central New York, who was in turn succeeded by Bishop Philip Cook, of Delaware.

As presiding bishop, Bishop Murray will also be president of the National Council of the Episcopal Church.

MARRIAGE LAW CHANGE IS GIVEN SETBACK

New Orleans, October 14.—(P)—The proposal to change the existing laws on marriage and divorce in the Protestant Episcopal church received another setback today in the general convention of the church here.

The committee on canons, of the house of deputies, rendered an adverse report on the resolution presented that body yesterday by Dr. Caleb R. Stetson for the sanctity of marriage association, which would have made remarriage impossible in cases of divorce granted for causes arising after marriage.

The resolution was placed on the calendar for further consideration.

An invitation was extended to the house of deputies by the chamber of commerce of Memphis, Tenn., that the 1928 meeting of the general convention be held in that city, and was referred to committee for consideration.

Another resolution proposing to remove the national council of the church from New York to Washington, D. C., was referred to a committee.

A resolution was offered to increase the salaries of the continental missionary bishops to $4,800—an increase of $800 per annum—and was referred to the committee on the budget.

Revision of the prayer book occupied the major portion of the day's order of business. The proposed revision of the psalter and the original was adopted and discussion of the revision of the new office of baptism was under way at adjournment.

Tonight a mass meeting of the department of religious education was held at which Jackson M. Bruce, president of the National Students' council, and the Rev. John W. Suter, Jr., executive secretary of the department of religious education, were the principal speakers.

YAARAB SHRINERS PLANNING SERIES OF FALL DANCES

The first of a series of formal dances to be given during the winter season to nobles of the Yaarab temple will be held at Denit Hills Golf club Friday night, October 23, according to Albert G. Dunn, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Nobles will be admitted at the door on presentation of their 1925 Shrine cards and an admission price of $2 per couple. Those desiring to bring additional ladies will be admitted upon payment of $1 for each lady, it is announced.

Music will be furnished by the Peerless Entertainers, popular Atlanta dance orchestra. Visiting nobles are cordially invited to attend.

Freak Storm Kills Family, Wrecks Home

Baton Rouge, La., October 14.—(P)

A freakish tornado dipped to earth 13 miles east of here today, leaving in its wake a toll of four dead, one injured and the debris of a six-room house.

David Myers, his wife and two children, girls, age five and three, were killed and an 18-months-old baby was injured. A boy, seven, escaped, having just left his home for school. The four killed and the injured infant were blown 70 yards from the house in which they had taken refuge on seeing the approaching storm.

The baby was brought to a hospital here and it is believed will survive. Everything standing on and about two acres, in the midst of which stood the house, was swept away, then the tornado lifted, and as it swept high above the country dropped bits of debris from the spot where it took its freakish dip.

Funeral services for the dead will be held Thursday at Zora Baptist church, not far from the scene of the tragedy.

SEATS RESERVED FOR TURK WOMEN ON STREET CARS

Constantinople, October 14.—(P)—Women's rights in Turkey do not yet include the ballot, but they do include reserved seats in trolley cars and ferry boats.

The tired business women of the Occident may well envy the women of Turkey, for whom a certain number of places are reserved by regulations just announced by the transportation companies.

Formerly red curtains enclosed the first two rows in the trolley cars and women were required to sit in the secluded section, called the "harem." No man, except the conductor, was allowed in the harem side of the red curtain, and no Moslem woman outside the curtain. The curtain has been removed and Turkish women now may sit side by side with men, but the women still have a monopoly on the first two rows of seats. A man may sit there if no woman is standing, but should a woman present herself, the man must vacate the seat.

CREW OF BARGE BELIEVED LOST OFF EAST COAST

Norfolk, Va., October 14.—(P)—

Grave concern is felt for the three men composing the crew of the barge Howard Wood which broke away from the tug King Fisher off the eastern shore during Saturday's northwester.

Nothing has since been heard from the barge or men though an abandoned barge, floating with deck awash, was sighted Sunday by a steamer forty miles east of Fenwick Island light. The steamer's radiogram indicated that no men were aboard this barge.

JOANNA

BY H. L. GATES

Joanna, "Miss Twenty-seven of the silk counter," described as "Joanna of the skirts too short and the lips too red and the tongue too pert," suddenly is summoned to the private office of Graydon, owner of the great department store in which she is employed. The summons is delivered by "Mr. Good Morning," the silk counter man for Harkness, the important buyer, whom the girls ridicule but fear. Joanna, bewildered, utterly discouraged at the thought that she is to be dismissed for some unknown offense, conceals her concern and goes arrogantly, chin tilted, into the presence of this august "Old Man," whom few of the employees have ever seen. Graydon receives her kindly, and questions her as to her family and friends. She assures him she has neither not counting her dancing boys who are at light in the head as they try to be on their feet. She forgets to tell him of John, a school boy wooer, who still is her devoted admirer. She thinks Graydon is merely amusing himself with her, and is antagonistic to him. Suddenly he hands her a little leather-bound book and a letter, addressed to her in care of the store. When she reads the first paragraph Joanna awakes and would have fallen if Graydon had not caught her and gently settled her in a chair.

INSTALLMENT IV.

The man answered in the even, curiously convincing manner that so completely baffled her: "That is one of the questions I may not answer. I shall be eager to know what your decisions will be."

The secretary would have comforted the girl; would have taken her arm and led her out into the store and to the street, but Graydon stayed her with a motion of his hand, as if whatever Joanna was to face, she must face it alone. Joanna groped her way across the office and the reception room. The secretary held open for her the outer door. For a moment she leaned against it. Before her eyes the busy people who hurried through the passage ways between the petitions of the cubbyholes on the "office floor" seemed to be swimmers in a whirlpool. She felt that Graydon had followed her and was standing close. Without turning she asked, her voice rising barely above a whisper:

"Which way do I go?"

A long time afterwards, when Joanna of the skirts too short and lips too red and tongue too pert had become a golden girl around whom a vortex raged, she remembered Graydon's reply to her whispered appeal: "I wish that I might show you, my dear; but it is every girl's burden to choose for herself. And as each one of you makes your choice, the world becomes better or worse. You may go either to the right—or to the left."

When the door closed behind the girl who had been "Miss Twenty-Seven of the silks," Graydon asked the secretary to get for him, on the telephone, the bank whose letter Joanna had wonderingly carried away in her hands. "Ask that I have Mr. Eggleston. He is expecting a call from me."

The telephone conversation was brief. Graydon seemed only to wish that his friend, the closest of the friends of his elderly years, should know that "she" was on her way to the bank; that "she" would be there in a few minutes.

At the other end of the wire Andrew Eggleston, a gray man who might have been moulded from the same pattern that had shaped Graydon except that the lines of his face were sterner, the lights of his eyes less gentle and his gestures more spasmodic, would have had his friend say more. He was unhappy with his own curiosity. Andrew Eggleston, chairman of the board of the great banking institution, and himself one of the world's richest men, was totally unfamiliar with a sense of curiosity about the private emotions of one of his bank's patrons. Yet he wanted to know how "she" had received the news that "she" suddenly had become possessor of the not inconsiderable sum of one million dollars. He attempted to keep his friend, Graydon, on the line.

"What did she say? How did she take it? Did she—that is—well, damn it, man! Is that all you have to say? That your sales clerk is coming down to get a million dollars?"

Eggleston's chief reputation in financial marts was for his irascible temper. He floundered dreadfully before the futility of spluttering into a telephone. But Graydon would not humor him.

"Her emotions at the moment, my friend, hardly are of much consequence. At any rate, I fancy she will not have recovered from them by the time she reaches the bank. Then you may estimate them for yourself."

A much younger man, who idled in the embrasure of a window across the room, laughed softly. "The adventure begins to interest you!" this man remarked. "I hope, for your sake, it becomes worth while."

Eggleston glared at the younger man sharply but deigned him no reply. He turned to the papers on the table before him.

Brandon, the man in the window, resumed his inspection of the panorama of the street outside. An observer, studying his face, would have traced on it the spectres of cynicism and would have concluded that they stamped him as one who harbored the conviction that he knew all sorts of women and classified them none too pleasantly.

The same analytical observer would have said of Eggleston, arbiter of many of the world's most important affairs, that he was a man who had lived a life in which women had been a useless ornament.

When Joanna was out of the presence of Graydon and the quiet effectiveness of his secretary, a quietness and an efficiency that both depressed and fascinated her, her dazed numbness quickened suddenly into a feverish excitement. That she had become a ghost in some fantastic masquerade, she was sure. But the thrill of it made her pulses leap. She wanted to rush to the silk counter and confide her amazing mystery to her chums there; even to confront "Mr. Good Morning" with a pose that would achieve its climax with the banker's under his nose. Then she decided that such a display would be premature. By this time she was at the street entrance. The first test had come. The "Old Man" had told her to ask the doorman for his car which, he said, would be waiting for her at the curb. She decided to try it.

To her amazement the doorman, resplendent in his conglomerate livery, seemed to expect her. A wave of his hand brought the limousine to the space opposite her. She waited. The "Old Man's" chauffeur descended and held open the door. As she approached him, her eyes widened, he touched his cap. When she would have looked at her letter to find the address, he interrupted:

"I know where, Miss! Mr. Graydon gave me instructions. It's to the bank."

Never before, it seemed to Joanna, had a car taken so long to go wherever it was headed for. Yet, really, the chauffeur threaded traffic skillfully. Joanna's excitement turned suddenly to panic when she realized that her driver was holding his arm to ease her to the pavement, with the arched stone portals of the bank looming in front of her. A doorman responded to a sign from the driver. There was a low word between them. The doorman touched his cap.

"I am to take you to Mr. Eggleston's rooms, Miss," he said, with a deference which Joanna recognized at once. Eggleston, she understood was the man she was to see. The utter drama of it all appalled her again. She looked into the chauffeur's face and caught there a gleam of understanding that, after all, she was just a girl of the shops, whose tinselled glory, whose ornaments, airs and fashions were only gaudy imitations of the fancied vogue of smart debutantes. She grasped at him as a friend.

"Tell me," she pleaded, starting the stiff formalities of the driver of her employer's private car. "What is it they're doing to me?"

The "Old Man's" chauffeur dropped his fingers from his cap and, in the face of this rearrangement of caste at its proper level, immediately unbent to "Miss Twenty-Seven of the silks." He spoke confidentially:

"I'll tell you, Miss. I know nothing except that I was to bring you here to old Eggleston's bank. But this I'll tell you, too, if you take it from me my boss and your boss is o. k., but if he's sending you in to see his grouchy pal Eggleston, there's somethin' doin'. And when there's somethin' doin' over a pretty kid like you, watch your step, girlie; watch your step! And maybe you'd better give me your number so I can call you up when I'm off duty after 10. You're the kind that looks too good to be true."

Perhaps nothing else could have so completely restored the equanimity of Joanna. Somehow it brought her back to a realization of her fitness to meet and conquer all things—either her boss' chauffeur after 10, or her boss' banker before noon.

All the confidence in the world clustered under the shimmering gold brown of her ultra-modish bob as she followed the obsequious doorman into the marbled tastiness of the metropolitan bank and up to the door that bore the legend, "Andrew Eggleston."

Brilliant Weddings Lend Interest To Social Calendar

The old tradition that Wednesday is a lucky day for weddings was carried out on the social calendar of Wednesday, October 14, when four prominent couples plighted their troth, the first of these marriages taking place at high noon and the last at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

Centering the attention of countless friends, and of much social prominence was the wedding of Miss Helen Blount Bowen, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Abner Bowen, and Louis Meriwether Muldrow, which took place at the home of the bride's mother, 800 Peachtree street, on Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, the Rev. Father Gustin Howe, of the Sacred Heart church, officiating in the presence of a distinguished group of relatives and friends.

Lovely Decorations.

The home was beautifully and artistically decorated with a profusion of yellow chrysanthemums, in lovely array. In the living room where the wedding took place there was an improvised altar. Banked at great height as a beautiful background were palms, ferns and foliage plants. Among the greenery were baskets of shaggy giant chrysanthemums and placed at intervals in the palms were massive brass candelabra in which burned tall white tapers. In front of this was the prie-dieu, with its cushions of white satin, tied on either side with bunches of the lovely white chrysanthemums.

Beautiful music was played before the ceremony and Mrs. L. W. Robert sang. The bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played for the entrance of the wedding party, and while the vows were being made soft nuptial music was rendered by the orchestra.

Wedding Attendants.

Mrs. Walton Blackwell, of Springfield, Mass., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She entered first and wore a beautiful imported model of lavender chiffon, hand-painted with pink roses and heavily beaded. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses, showered with swainsons and valley lilies.

Little Miss Louise Robert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Robert, was the flower girl, and preceded the bride. She wore a dainty frock of peach chiffon trimmed with many tiny lace-edged ruffles. She carried a Marie Antoinette basket of Ophelia roses and swainsons, and scattered the path of the bride with rose petals.

Beautiful Bride.

The bride entered with her mother, Mrs. Joseph A. Bowen, who gave her in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Henry Robinson. She was a picture of exquisite loveliness in her wedding gown of ivory white satin elaborately headed in seed pearls and crystals in a rose design. The skirt was cut on circular lines and fell in scallops at the bottom. The bodice was fitted and fitted with a lovely rose design of the pearls and crystals was used as a trimming. The waist was joined over the skirt in a scalloped effect. Her lovely brunette beauty was enhanced by the misty white tulle veil which was most becomingly caught to the hair with a wreath of orange blossoms. It fell in graceful folds at great length, forming the train. She carried an arm bouquet of white orchids, beautifully showered with valley lilies.

Wedding Reception. Mrs. Bowen entertained at a wedding reception following the ceremony and receiving with her were the bride and groom, and the matron-of honor, Mrs. Walton M. Blackford, sister of the bride.

Mrs. Bowen wore a handsome gown of jade green, beaded in crystal worn over a slip of the same color and her corsage was of pink rose buds and swainsons.

Assisting in receiving were Mrs. R. M. Blount, Mrs. Smith Pickett, J. A. Branch, Mrs. Annie Adair Foster, Mrs. Edward VanWinkle, Mrs. L. W. Robert and Mrs. C. D. Pearson.

Mrs. Dana Belser kept the bride's brooch and Mrs. Arthur Almond and Miss Leila Ponder served punch. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Muldrow left for a wedding journey and their return will be at home at the Georgian Terrace.

Prominent Families.

Mrs. Muldrow is the beautiful and talented young daughter of Mrs. Mary Hughes Bowen and the late Joseph Hughes Bowen, who was prominent in insurance circles in Atlanta for many years. She is the sister of Mrs. Walton McClelland Blackford, of Springfield, Mass., and Joseph Abner Bowen, of Detroit, Mich. She is a member of the Hughes family of that state who were prominent as statesmen and men of letters, and she is a graduate of Girls' High school.

Mr. Muldrow, who has made his home in Atlanta for the past six years, is originally from Meriwether, S. C., and is a member of the American expeditionary forces in France, later being in the army of occupation. He is descended on his maternal side from the Meriwethers, who first settled in this country in Virginia on large grants of land from King Charles I, during the middle of the seventeenth century. His father was the late John J. Muldrow, of Sumter, S. C., whose family originally settled in that state from Scotland. His grandfather, the late Colonel Henry Muldrow, served with distinction in the civil war.

After Mr. Muldrow's discharge from the army in 1919, he made his home in Atlanta where he has been identified with the social and business life of the city, being a member of the Capital City club and a former member of the Bell House. He is engaged in the cotton business and is one of the leading brokers of the southeast.

Miss Lewis Weds Dr. George Eubanks.

A beautiful and impressive ceremony uniting two of Atlanta's well known families was that of Miss Eloise Elizabeth Lewis and Dr. George Foster Eubanks, which was solemnized at the North Avenue Presbyterian Church at High Noon Wednesday, October 14. The Reverend Richard Orme Flinn was the officiating minister performing the ceremony in the presence of a gathering of representative Atlantans and out-of-town guests.

Just prior to and during the marriage service, Joseph Ragan, church organist, rendered appropriate selections of nuptial music, and Mrs. Elyse Carswell sang "I Love You" and "Be-cause of the Day." The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and yellow chrysanthemums. Entwining the altar rail and columns of the chancel were garlands of southern holly and interspersed with these delicate greenery were glowing autumn leaves. Tall pedestals of baskets of the chrysanthemums were used effectively against the dark background of the chancel, and burning white tapers added a beautiful solemnity to the scene.

Bridal Party.

The ushers, Dr. H. E. Paty, Dr. Russell Burke, Dr. Holt Darden and Dr. Ed. F. Fisher entered the first in pairs to strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played softly on the organ by Mr. Ragan. "Some one asked me why I didn't use Black-Draught. I thought I could at least give it a trial. After the first dose or two I was so weak I rested for a few days, then began taking it regularly."

"I had suffered so much I was almost afraid to, but I began. I noticed first that the burning quit, then the pain. After a few weeks I wasn't afraid to eat and my skin got clearer. I felt much better."

"My daughter," says Mr. Orr, "would hurry home to meals and hurry eating, until she began having indigestion. She got so thin and weak until I was afraid she was going to get down in bed. She was away from work half the time. Her skin was yellow and we were uneasy about her."

"We decided she should try Black-Draught, too. She took it for a few weeks, regularly, and it acted on the liver, her skin cleared up, she began to eat, she gained until she looked fine. Her skin is clear now and she weighs more than she ever has."

"My wife has used Black-Draught for headache, colds and indigestion for a long time. We keep it on the shelf and think there is nothing like it."

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Trials of the Settlers.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

FROM THE START THE SETTLEMENT OF JAMESTOWN DID NOT THRIVE. THE HIGHBORN GENTLEMEN AMONG THE COLONISTS THOUGHT OTHER PURSUITS OF MORE IMPORTANCE THAN THE PLANTING OF CORN AND THE TOWN COUNCIL WAS UNABLE TO FORCE THEM TO DO MANUAL LABOR.

THE SUMMER OF 1607 WAS A DISASTROUS ONE FOR THE SETTLERS. THE EXTREME HEAT, THE UNHEALTHY LOCATION OF THE TOWN AND IMPURE DRINKING WATER BROUGHT ON AN EPI- DEMIC OF FEVER THAT KILLED MANY.

THE GENTLEMEN ADVENTURERS NOW BEGAN TO PAY FOR THEIR FOLLY OF REFUSING TO DEVOTE THEIR TIME TO RAISING CROPS. THE FOOD GAVE OUT AND MANY DIED OF FAMINE—BY THIS TIME LESS THAN HALF OF THE SETTLERS WERE LEFT.

IN THEIR DISTRESS THE HUNGRY COLONISTS LOOKED TO CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH FOR HELP. THE OLD SOLDIER WAS EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY AND GOING TO THE INDIANS SECURED SUPPLIES BY BARTERING TRINKETS FOR CORN AND VENISON. TOMORROW—JOHN SMITH AND POCAHONTAS.

Fifth District Club Women Indorse City Bond Issue

Indorsement of an adequate bond issue for Atlanta and rendition of splendid reports showing a remarkable progress by the clubs of the district featured the general meeting of the Fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, held Wednesday morning in the College Park Methodist church with the College Park club women acting as hostesses.

An eloquent plea for the ideals of older days made by Professor R. E. Park, of Georgia university, was another outstanding part of the day's program.

The bond resolution called for an issue "for better schools, better sewerage, city hall and waterworks," properly apportioned and properly commissioned. It was presented by the chairman, Mrs. W. B. Price-Smith, assisted by the members of the resolution committee, Mrs. George Hinman, Mrs. Charles H. Morris, Mrs. R. H. Wolfe and Miss Annie Mae Broach.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, who has successfully steered the activities of the fifth district of the Georgia federation for the past year, showing a happy mixture of aggressiveness and conservatism that has kept the organization in the forefront of club work.

Mrs. Hastings stressed the importance of the organization of women's clubs in the country throughout the district. Mrs. Ira Farmer, state chairman, presented plans for junior work. It was brought out that she and Mrs. Hastings are working out plans to organize business women's clubs, making them a part of the federated clubs.

Mrs. Farmer's idea is that of organizing these clubs in the large business organizations wherever possible.

Reports were heard from every club of the fifth district present. Among the noteworthy reports were the number of clubs possessing health chairmen, citizenship chairmen and educational chairmen. Every club president, in making her report of the activities to take place during the year, gave an admirable talk, bringing out points to be carried home by other clubs.

Dr. Elizabeth Broach, chairman of public health, gave an inspirational health appeal to the women. "It is the duty of every woman," she said, "to be as healthy and as good looking as possible."

Funds for Tallulah. Every club pledged itself to double its appropriation to Tallulah Falls Industrial school, the Kirkwood club pledging itself to quadruple its last year's appropriation. Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick gave an inspirational talk in behalf of the school. Mrs. A. O. Granger, one of the best known and beloved of clubwomen in the state, spoke on international relations.

The outstanding feature of the luncheon, which closed the meeting, was a talk presented by Dr. R. E. Park, holding the chair of literature at the University of Georgia. Dr. Park closed his inspiring address with, "As man thinks today, so we are tomorrow. Let us all keep this fact before us and remember we have not lost our ideals, but are in danger of losing them. They are being submerged in the great heap of little things."

Trivial everyday things that mean so little. Let us all make a study of what life means and make our lives worth while. I try to live so that I will have given as much as I have received." Dr. Park also brought out that it lies finally in the women of the country, and in the home to make the men and women of tomorrow the ideals we dream of.

BEAUTY CHATS BY EDNA E. FORBES.

A FINE GRAINED SKIN.

There are at least 500 ways of making the skin fine grained, and probably 100 of this number would suit your special type of complexion. It is as well to know of a number of methods, for you cannot always treat the skin the same way; in dry weather you must use a little oil and in cold weather the treatment is not the same as in hot; you need fewer astringents for one thing.

So here's just one other suggestion for making the skin fine. It is to use powdered oatmeal.

Buy the oatmeal powder from a druggist, you can buy quite a large tin for 25c to 50c, scented or otherwise. Wash the face with quite warm water and no soap, keeping the warm, wet wash cloth over the skin long enough to open the pores slightly, about one minute.

Pour a little powder into the palm of one hand, and put with it just enough water to make it a paste, a few drops will do. Rub this into the face and rub and rub for perhaps another minute. The skin absorbs the moisture, the oatmeal dries and eventually rubs off. But do not carry the treatment this far, after a minute, wash off the paste with warm water. Wash it off thoroughly, and dry the skin.

That's all there is to it. But the oatmeal is as cleansing as soap, more so, for it makes the skin finer, very soft to touch, and very nice to look at. Fine blackheads will disappear as if by magic, big ones will yield, in time, to the efficient cleansing this oatmeal gives. It is, besides, slightly bleaching, and good as a summer treatment.

Shirley V. P.—You would undermine your health if you take any of these drugs you mention to reduce. A girl of 16 should not try much by way of reduction, except to take enough exercise and omit rich sweets from the diet when she is inclined to be as stout as you are.

Your weight should be about 108 with a height of five feet, one inch, but a little more or less at this age does not matter.

Mary Ann—At this season of the year most people are troubled with falling hair, but they should also be compensated by having plenty of new hair coming in. Massage scalp every day to keep up a healthy circulation, as that helps more than a hair tonic; however, if this is not effective, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the formula for the pilargine hair tonic and I will be glad to mail it to you.

Tomorrow—Cold Cream. Edna Kent Forbes is now ready to fill a long-felt need on the part of her readers—that of supplying the most important of her excellent beauty hints in illustrated pamphlet form. To secure this valuable information you must address Miss Forbes in care of this paper, asking for her pamphlet, "Beauty," and enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in stamps.

Why Mummies Were Made

"Why did the Egyptians make mummies?" This question was asked of me by a boy who appears to be much interested in the customs of the people of ancient Egypt. Indeed, it is a good question—for we often hear of mummies, and seldom of the reason why the custom of making mummies grew.

Mummies were made because the Egyptians believed that the spirit or double of a human being would not live unless the body lasted also. If a body should be burned or should crumble to dust, they thought that the spirit or double would die. With such thoughts in their heads, it is no wonder that the Egyptians should take pains to preserve their bodies. The priests were the chief undertakers, and knew the secrets of oils which would help make the bodies last. Because they were well paid, the priests took special pains with the mummies of rich men and nobles. That is why such mummies have in-forward to only a short life in the after-world. The doubles were supposed to look like the persons in life. Early teaching declared that they could eat just as do living beings, and that they remained near their mummies.

To feed the doubles, food was left in the tombs. Several of the kings went so far as to set aside the income from certain taxes for the care and feeding of their doubles. One king left a will that the taxes from 11 towns should be used for his double.

Another set aside the income from 12 towns for the same purpose. Temples were frequently built beside the tombs, in order that the priests should be nearby to care for the doubles. We may guess that the priests kept the food offerings from going to waste.

A mummy held up by Anubis, the god with the head of a jackal. Scrawling women gaze on this mummy. In later centuries, a new and clever way was invented to care for the feeding of the doubles. Pictures of fruit and grain were placed inside the tombs. Such sketches were supposed to take the place of the real food. To keep up the supply year after year, pictures of men sowing grain, caring for it in the fields, reaping, and threshing, were placed near, or inside, the coffins. Largely because of that strange custom, which has saved the pictures for us to look at, we know much about the ways of the Egyptian farmers three or four thousand years ago.

SLAMS SALAAMS

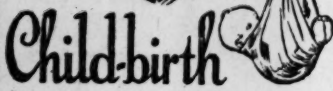

By Louise Dooly

OUR note book of stray thoughts—we haven't called on it lately. Let's see what is some of the actual situation.

THE DEBT PAGANT.

WITH France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Italy as debtors to the United States marching in turn to get theirs, Uncle Sam is reluctantly forced into the attitude of the disciplinary parent—"It hurts me a great deal worse than it can possibly hurt you."

And the debtors are just as skeptical as little Johnny in the same position.

Child-birth

THOUSANDS of mothers for over three generations have praised Mother's Friend for relieving them of unnecessary pain during expectancy. How important it is that the Mother-to-be should pass this period with calm nerves. The sweetest story ever told is the soul-whispering of mother to her unborn child! Mother love and expectancy—be prepared to make this dream a reality.

"Everyone was surprised how well I got along," writes Mrs. Alfred E. Ammon, Muncie, Ind. "My pains disappeared after using Mother's Friend and I was sick only an hour and a half at baby's birth."

Mother's Friend is the formula of an eminent physician. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand more easily during the constant readjustment of expectancy, month after month, right up to childbirth. Plain oils only penetrate the skin. Mother's Friend penetrates deeper and soothes the broad muscles of the abdomen, back and hips; making them soft and pliable—thus really aiding Nature to do her part.

Mother! Insist on Mother's Friend—the same as used by our mothers and grandmothers—don't wait—start using tonight—and meanwhile write Bradford Regulator Co., Dept. 33, Atlanta, Ga., for free valuable booklet "Motherhood and the Coming Baby" (sent in plain envelope). It tells how Mother's Friend can help you during expectancy and at childbirth. This booklet also tells you many other things you want to know. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists—everywhere.

WHERE DIVINE RIGHTS FAIL.

A WOMAN we know was in one of the European capitals the past summer where royalty is still a fact, not a memory.

The king and queen rode forth—morn'ing to attend some public function, and our friend was fortunate enough to secure a window overlooking the procession in a street so narrow that when the royal equipage passed by she distinctly heard his majesty say to her majesty: "Mary, if you don't stop nagging, I'll get out and walk."

AN ANACHRONISM.

FIND what's wrong with this picture:

A modern girl bending over the wounded hero, and tearing into strips to bind up his wounds, her petticoat.

EVEN the current London automobile show, the biggest ever, which specializes among other things in bright colors for pleasure cars, gives us little help in one of our most pressing uncertainties.

The London show emphasizes that the really chic thing for a woman is to have her car the color of the gown she is wearing.

But what, we are asking ourselves, shall we do when we wear our other gown?

WHY BE RATIONAL?

"WE'RE having very pleasant weather now," a letter from a southern city reads, "just the kind to help you really enjoy your summer clothes, but the women are putting on their coats and cloth gowns. They're worn their fall hats since July."

REFLECTIONS OF A WIDOW.

"THERE are ways and ways in which a man may win a woman's heart," remarks our friend the widow. "But is there anything more prepossessing in a man than the ability to order a perfect dinner? And I include in that talent the art of entering the restaurant with an air, and making the occasion for you an event."

THRIFT HAS ITS PLACE, BUT—

SHE says this, too: "Luxuries with Americans, we all know, are counted only as comforts."

"But the woman whose prosperity has outrun her cultivation of taste is easy to recognize when she goes touring in her big car."

"Why can't she see that the woman who can afford a luxurious car and the leisure to travel in it can afford to dress up to it? To expend a suitable gown and hat on the trip, if necessary? The gasoline that is burned on the journey, the meals that are paid for by the way, are gone forever, and nobody thinks anything of it. "It is hard for a woman to hold her looks on a dusty journey, but I have seen women who picked out for it a faded and depressed looking costume which they must have retrieved from the place where all old clothes go."

WHAT D'Y MEAN, INTELLIGENT?

A CERTAIN business man was made president not long ago of the Lions or the Tigers or the Moose or the Simians or something; not long ago, but long enough for the cares of office to begin to get on his nerves. He had sent out a written notice to every member explaining a forthcoming celebration, and dozens of the members had since been taking up his time over the phone or dropping into his office to ask about details which had been clearly explained in the written notice.

"They're business men. You'd think," he growled, "they'd show some intelligence."

But that's just one of the fallacies men hold, that just because a man's business man he's intelligent.

Success magazines tell you there are no accidental successes in business, but they're all wrong, Reginald, ask almost any woman whose husband is a business man.

SHE QUALIFIES EARLY.

"ISN'T it too bad your new baby is a girl," a sympathetic neighbor said to the young father. "She can never be president of the United States."

"Don't be too sure of that," said the proud parent. "When she is old enough to be president, a woman candidate may be as good a risk as a man."

Nearly a year has passed since the above exchange of remarks. Now the baby's father is more than ever hopeful about her political chances.

"The reason I think she'll be a success if she goes into politics," he says now, "is that mud slinging and digging in the dirt are her favorite pastimes."

Rives Fined $51 And Bound Over In Traffic Fight

M. Rives, 26-year-old salesman, of 520 Washington street, Wednesday was fined $51 in police court on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest, and held to the state courts under $300 bond under section 311, penal code of Georgia. This code section makes it unlawful to resist an officer acting in the scope of his authority, either in arresting or serving local papers.

Rives was arrested Monday after an altercation with Patrolman H. O. Hambrick at Forsyth and Mitchell streets, in which both men received bruises which necessitated treatment at Grady hospital.

In passing sentence Recorder Murphy M. Holloway took occasion to deplore "a spirit which fails to respect law and order and compliance therewith," and went on record as favoring strongest support by courts of officers of the law within their rights. "If our police are not upheld in the performance of their duties it will not be long before every officer will be run off his beat to escape being beaten up," he said. "It certainly is the purpose and intent of this court to accord full support to members of the police department in their efforts to enforce the laws."

Rives was arrested after resisting arrest when he failed to heed Officer Hambrick's warning not to cross the street in face of the red light, according to testimony at the trial. Several witnesses testified that Rives was "stubborn and resisted being searched after he had been taken to police station, and that two officers had to hold him while he was searched by the turnkey."

Attorneys for Rives have given notice of their intentions to appeal the case.

Man Who Killed Girl Gets Suspended Term On Prohibition Charge

Moultrie, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—K. T. Whitfield, who had been held in jail here since his car ran down and fatally injured Martha Whitley, Moultrie high school girl, a week ago, Wednesday afternoon walked out of the Colquitt county court house free, but with a year's suspended sentence on the charge of violating the prohibition law by admitting that at the time of the fatal accident he had a small quantity of whisky in his automobile. The grand jury, after an exhaustive investigation of the death of Miss Whitley returned a "no bill" on the charge of involuntary manslaughter which had been lodged against Whitfield. He was indicted for having whisky in his possession. Following his plea of guilty to that charge Judge W. E. Thomas sentenced the defendant to a year in the penitentiary, but issued an order permitting him to serve it on probation.

LOWDEN SCORES U. S. BUREAUCRACY

Chicago, October 14.—(AP)—Frank D. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, declared that America's governmental machinery was hopelessly out of date, in an address last night to a class in citizenship at the University of Chicago.

The government is "moribund with bureaucracy, enmeshed helplessly in its own twining of red tape," he said.

"Taxation's growing burden has been the only stimulus that has awakened our people into the fearful knowledge that democratic government, as America is practicing it, is a failure at the moment."

"In the last few years all pretense of keeping up the departmental form of organization of the federal government has been abandoned. There are now something more than 40 independent establishments of government answerable only to the president."

"It is obvious that the president can have no knowledge of, and thus exercise supervision over, these independent agencies of government. There should not be a single function pertaining to administration which does not come directly under some cabinet official."

Mr. Lowden said that the "10 departments in Washington" are so numerous that they are practically independent agencies of government unrelated, he declared.

Juror Brings Murder Trial To Quick End

A mistrial was declared in the case of E. C. Cameron, who went on trial Wednesday morning in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court on a charge of murder. Cameron was jointly indicted with Millard Davis on May 22 by a Fulton county grand jury, it being alleged that they were occupants of a car which struck down and almost instantly killed Ralph Elliott, 14-year-old boy, on May 22.

Rising in the midst of testimony being introduced by the state, Jurorman Burnett informed Assistant Solicitor General E. A. Stephens, who was prosecuting the case, that he was ineligible as a juror because he was related by marriage to Millard Davis, defendant in the case.

Mr. Burnett stated that he had not thought of the relationship until the testimony began. "Davis is a first cousin of mine," he said.

Judge Humphries ruled that the case could be tried with only 11 jurors provided both sides agreed to this course. The prosecution readily agreed to do so, but the defense objected and a mistrial was declared.

Ralph Elliott, who lived on College street, in Dill Park, was struck down by an automobile near Nolen & Richardson's store, in Hill Park, on February 22. Occupants of the machine struck the youth failed to stop. The boy was carried to Grady hospital, where he died shortly afterward. Cameron and Davis were not apprehended by police until several days after the accident.

Cameron already has been tried and the jury could not agree on a verdict. No date for a new trial has been set.

UNABLE YET TO GET STEPHENSON JURY

Nobleville, Ind., October 14.—(AP) Preconceived opinions and opposition to capital punishment again prevented a jury being obtained today in the Hamilton circuit court to try D. C. Stephenson, former Ku Klux Klan leader and two associates, charged with murder in connection with the death of Madge Oberholzer of Indianapolis.

The prospect of actually putting Stephenson, Earl Klenck and Earl Century on trial this week was considered slim by attorneys.

COTTON MEN DEPLORE FREIGHT RATE CHANGE

Boston, October 14.—(AP)—The suggestion that freight rate changes are likely to lead to increased competition in the markets for cotton goods was made by the rates and transportation committee in its report to the annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers here today.

"Freight rates over the country," the report said, "are in a particularly unsettled state and the outcome of present investigations cannot be definitely determined. There is, however, no seeming surety and that is that the result of these investigations will divert in many commodities the source of traffic flow to the interior of the country, cause the opening up of new districts for the fabrication of raw materials and force manufacturers at their present locations to face a competition more keen than they have heretofore experienced."

"Each individual cotton manufacturer is much more interested in his subject than he realizes. Instances are not rare where a failure to merchandise a product is known to be due to higher freight rates from a competitive manufacturing point or section."

"Long distance hauls on the eastern railroads have greatly improved, but the service from New England particularly, seemed to have lagged. The aid we may expect from the railroads traversing the northeastern section is, however, questionable."

AMUSEMENT Field Minstrel Coming.

In presenting this, the thirty-third annual edition of the A. G. Field Minstrel, the producers have endeavored to live up to the traditions of old-time minstrelsy.

This year the locale of the presentation is in Dixie Land and the spirit of the southern people pervades the performance. The opening scene or prologue is a realistic cotton field, picturing the cotton pickers at work. The appearance of Brady and the Atlanta theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, with matinee Saturday. Mail orders are now being received. The box office sale begins Monday morning.

Keith's Forsyth.

A complete change of program is being offered today and the remainder of this week at Keith's Forsyth theater with Florence and Gertrude Kelly Lambert, outstanding stars in the vaudeville firmament as the headlining feature on the new bill.

The program includes the comedy stars of Raymond Bond and company, Lee and Romaine are the "Classical Jazz Boys." Gautier's Phonograph Dogs present a splendid canine act and more.

Loew's Grand.

The Bison City Four, a quartette of singers and comedians and Bobby Randall, comedian and story teller are the headliners on the vaudeville bill at Loew's Grand this week.

The Bison City Four scores one of the biggest hits of the show with a repertoire of popular song hits. Dorothy Berger, a pretty little soprano, sings songs, including "Fairy Tales" with Joan Page and the Wainwright sisters and Frank Le Dent, jugglers, complete the bill. "Romola" is the Loew feature picture.

The Metropolitan.

Edna Ferber is becoming almost as popular as a screen fictionist as she is as a magazine writer. One of Colleen Moore's recent successes, "The Sign of the Cross," was from a Ferber story. And now Corinne Griffith is at the Metropolitan in "Classified," another story by Miss Ferber, and said by the critics to be the best of her work to date. The work of Corinne Griffith is proving her to be not only a beauty but an actress as well.

The stage attractions which are the most pretentious yet offered by this popular playhouse consist of "The Sign of the Cross," a production of the Metropolitan, and "The Dance," interpreted by Gertrude Kelly Lambert, which is receiving the unstinted approval of the metropolitan orchestra. The production of "The Sign of the Cross" presents "Old and New," a contrast of melodies yesterday and today.

The Rialto.

"The Ten Commandments" will be followed next week by the Rialto theater by Zane Grey's "Wild Horse Mesa," a pleasing variation of the time-honored "western" picture, the management management yesterday. Meanwhile the theater is taxed to take care of the thousands who are crowding it this week to see the super feature, "The Ten Commandments."

Pasture Treatment Given Four Persons At State Capitol

Four persons—Policeman J. A. Wright, W. T. George of 205 South Moreland avenue; Y. G. Thomas, 3-year-old son of Chief of Police Thomas, of Porterdale, and Philip Steyer, son of A. L. Steyer, of 128 Rawson street—were treated for rabies at the capitol Wednesday.

George and the Thomas boy were struck by a glancing shot when a policeman, Wright fired at a dog which was attacking him. It is said that the shot which struck George and Thomas had passed through a sharp dip on the road before it was fired. Steyer was bitten by the dog before it was attacked.

Imports Increase.

Washington, D. C., October 14.—(AP)—Exports from the United States for September were $422,000,000 and imports $340,000,000, leaving a favorable trade balance of $78,000,000.

The import total for the month, as the commerce department published today, was larger than that of any month this year except March.

One Day in Finance

New York, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Motor, rail, oil, steel, industrial, stocks of mail order houses and department stores were all taken up in turn today and advanced on continued active trading with the average price of 50 representative stocks again at a new high level for all time. Stocks of mail order houses and department stores were advanced on expectations of very favorable autumn and Christmas trade.

Returning from Europe today President Mitchell of the National City bank said he could see no reason why the existing wave of prosperity in this country should not continue as long as nothing happens to rock the boat and upset the existing financial and industrial balance. Oil, financial and industrial balance was upset, he said, by the throwing out of balance or if prices of commodities are advanced to a point where the existing balance is upset. He said that the balance of the money market is the real basis of our existing prosperity.

More favorable developments occurred in the steel and iron industry during the past week. Stocks of steel companies advanced in the past week, according to today's weekly reviews. Further gains in orders together with additional evidence of increased mill operations for the remainder of this year, it was stated here, had encouraged steel manufacturers to take a firmer stand on prices.

It was learned today that Bethlehem steel is figuring to sell 1926 will show $5 a share earned for the common stock. Officials of this company, it was also learned, are figuring to raise the 8 percent preferred stock, which is selling at its call price. Presumably some of the money thus to be used will be borrowed and some will come from the company's surplus.

DECATUR TRADE BOARD PLANS 100-ROOM HOTEL

Decatur, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—An optimistic report concerning the 100-room hotel proposed in Decatur in the near future to care for a great number of tourists featured the meeting held last night by the Decatur Chamber of Commerce. The meeting was held in the Masonic temple, and a banquet was served by the Decatur chapter of the Eastern Star, Mrs. J. W. Queen, grand matron, in charge.

J. A. McCarty, chairman of the hotel committee, reported that investigations of the hotel project to be feasible, that a tentative site had been selected and plans whereby the funds with which to build the hotel will be raised locally. It is planned to have a large commodious building with plenty of veranda and front-yard space, something that will appeal to the tourists. Free parking space is to be a feature of the hotel, it was announced.

Twenty-five new members reported last night and it was announced that the county-wide campaign for membership is being pushed.

Klan Head Calls For Restrictions On Immigration

Solemn warning that unless America becomes a more homogeneous mass of English-speaking citizens it will suffer the fate of the builders of the Tower of Babel, was sounded Wednesday night in an address by Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, at the city auditorium before an audience of 2,000 Klansmen and their friends.

Hooded and robed klansmen seated in the dress circle of the auditorium, scattered about the arena among the audience, a brilliant flaming cross of electric lights and a setting of American flags on the stage made the meeting a colorful gathering. Numbers of the klansmen were their hands with the vizards lifted to show their faces, though the majority concealed their identity.

Mr. Evans was introduced by Mayor Walter A. Sims, who referred to the Atlanta Klans as a help in "telling the world about Atlanta." The meeting was held in connection with the annual state convention of the Klan, and was the second session at which Mr. Evans has delivered an address this week in Atlanta.

ment on the part of native born, gentle men against conditions in this country, which needed correction, the imperial wizard said in outlining the purposes of the organization. The aim of the order, he stated, is to restore the old condition of the preponderance of native born citizens in the United States. When this country won its independence, he said, the percentage was 93 per cent native born, while today it is only 50 per cent.

Defending the restrictive immigration law, Mr. Evans said it will "preserve America for Americans," and help to prevent the entire nation from becoming polyglot. He said that criminality is growing because of the invasion of foreigners, tracing 75 per cent of the crime in this country to aliens. Criminal aliens should be deported after serving their sentences, he declared.

Urging a return to the "old time" reverence for Sunday, he deplored the spread of the foreign idea of a "Continental Sunday" whereby the people spend the day in enjoyment instead of worship. In touching on this he paid a splendid tribute to the late William Jennings Bryan.

THE TIME TO BUY

Not for many years have conditions been so favorable in Atlanta for the buyer; there is no excitement or delirium forcing the purchaser to make a quick decision; but there exists the serene opportunity to exercise proper judgment and look around.

Let this idea have consideration; the subdivisions which were offered for sale only a few years ago, such as Ansley Park, are now fully built up and the city has grown far beyond its former limits.

Buy a lot now even if you do not plan to use it for possibly five or ten years; it will be available when you get ready to build. The way Atlanta is growing now desirable lots will soon be very scarce and prices will be much higher than they are today. Look over the lots in our subdivisions which range in price from $2,000 to $2,500 and upward, make a down payment of 10% of the purchase price and extinguish the balance in a series of monthly or annual notes. Let this constitute a saving and an investment, leading to home ownership.
